GAS RATE ORDINANCE STANDS

BINDER AND KAISER WITHDRAW DEMANDS FOR RATE ELECTION

Action Eliminates Vote And Forestalls Higher Gas Rate

The gas rate controversy ended abruptly Friday with an unexpected eleventh-hour victory for City Commission, saving Xenia natural gas consumers from paying The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. what otherwise would have eventually been a sixty-cent rate per 1,000 cubic feet.

The successful termination of the dispute came when H. L. Binder and G. W. Kaiser filed with City Auditor T. H. Zell Friday morning, a written withdrawal of their signatures from a petition filed Thursday demanding that the Commission provide for a special election and submission of the question to the people, under the referendum provisions of the city charter.

Binder and Kaiser gave no explanation of the sudden change in their attitude. Officials of the gas company were immediately notified and the firm's Xenia representative, again submitted the company's acceptance of the ordinance to the commission.

The gas ordinance which will become effective almost immediately, is operative for two years and contains no increase in the previous fifty-cent rate per 1,000 cubic feet of the fuel consumed, originally sought.

The ordinance provides for a $1 service charge for the first 500 feet of cubic gas used, or less, but an extra concession was obtained eliminating the $1 service charge if no gas is used. A penalty of five per cent is provided for failure to pay bills promptly by the first of the month, and the five per cent discount for prompt payment is eliminated.

It is estimated that acceptance of the present gas ordinance means that Xenians will pay $24,311.10 less per year for the fuel than in the event an entirely new schedule providing for a sixty-cent rate, which the company proposed to file with the state utilities commission if an election had been ordered, was placed in effect.

The gas company had filed its acceptance of its own ordinance June 22 following its passage by City Commission, but conditional that if an election on the question was ordered, the firm retained the option of withdrawing it.

The withdrawal was made when opposition to the ordinance arose. Facing the necessity of certifying an order for the holding of a special election to the board of elections by midnight, Saturday, City Commission had failed to take scheduled action on the matter at its regular meeting Thursday night.

Commissioners unanimously voted to recess until 3:30 p. m. Saturday until legal advice could be obtained from City Solicitor J. A. Finney as to what course of action to adopt.

The city solicitor's procedure was unable to attend Thursday's meeting because of illness in his family.

With the situation now clarified and the possibility of an expensive election averted, Commissioners decided to meet at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and wind up routine details regarding the matter, including taking note of the action of Binder and Kaiser in rescinding all of their previous actions.

The names of Frank Dean and William Howard remain on the demand for an election but the committee is controlled by the majority.

"Ought To Be Kicked" Said Byrd

VER-SUR-MER, France, July 1.—"We had a great flight. Imagine seeing nothing for nineteen hours!" Commander Richard E. Byrd of the giant Fokker monoplane America, who dramatic trans-oceanic flight ended at 2:32 o'clock this morning when the plane plunged into the English Channel, made this statement to International News Service today as he graphically described the thrilling flight.

Two fishermen, attracted by the hum of the motor, helped the flyers reach the beach. They conducted Byrd and Lieut. Bert Balchen, the passenger, to the home of Vice Mayor Coiffier. Bert Acosta, the pilot, and Lieut. George O. Noville, the radio expert, were taken to the lighthouse where they were put to bed.

All four flyers were dead tired and fell asleep at once. Byrd awoke at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon and went by automobile to the city hall to meet the mayor upon sending a cablegram to his wife in Boston.

"When we landed in the water," Byrd said, "both of the wings of the plane broke off at once."

His greatest concern upon arising after a brief nap was to get his plane ashore and disassemble it. "We think we landed about 200 yards out from Ver-Sur-Mer," said Byrd, "but we are not sure. I am pleased to hear you tell me that Le Bourget field ceased to bear out automatic signals at 1:15 a. m. because that will aid us in determining what time we did come down."

FLYERS FORCED DOWN BY EXHAUSTING GAS WHEN HUNTING PARIS

America Flies For Hours Through Fog And Rain
Unable To Find Field—Finally Flies Out
Over Water

PARIS, July 1.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three fellow trans-Atlantic flyers who spanned the Atlantic in the mighty Fokker monoplane America through storms and fog, are safe.

The America landed at 2:32 o'clock this morning in the channel 200 yards off the coast at Ver-Sur-Mer, in the Department of Calvados, not far from Havre. This is 125 miles from Paris.

After being missing for hours, during which they cruised through rain and thick mist over France, the airmen turned up safe and sound, allaying the anxiety that had grown up overnight for their safety.

The America was in the air approximately forty-three hours.

Byrd and his companions landed in the channel after running out of gas and oil while seeking the mouth of the Seine, less than fifty miles away.

The American flyers had taken to their collapsible rubber boat when they landed in the water and two fishermen helped tow them to the coast.

Throughout the early morning hours all France, both the ground beneath and the sky above, was combed for the missing Americans. It was not until 8:30 o'clock that the mystery of the missing flyers was solved. At that hour the commandant of Le Bourget air depot received a telephone message from Havre stating that a report had been received there that Commander Byrd's plane had come down at Ver-Sur-Mer about 200 yards off the coast.

The prefect of police at Caen, near the spot where the plane came down, told International News Service that the America had "made a safe landing," indicating that it was not damaged to any great extent.

In fact, that the plane came down on the coast aroused the supposition that it had traveled considerable distance inland, swinging in a great circle back towards the Atlantic.

Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, who had preceded Byrd and his companions on the trans-oceanic hop, were among the first to be notified of the safe landing of the Americans on the coast.

"I am glad they're safe and they can claim success for they flew from New York to France without a stop," exclaimed the two Americans in unison.

Chamberlin and Levine said they fully appreciated difficulties of the flight. Byrd had made and they praised the air worthy qualities of the Fokker plane.

"I will surely be glad to congratulate Byrd and his fellow aviators," said Chamberlin.

"And so will I," added Levine. Capt. R. D. White, naval attaché of the United States embassy, and a group of officials left Paris at 10:45 in two automobiles for Ver-Sur-Mer to bring the flyers back to Paris. They were accompanied by an International News Service correspondent.

For hour after hour a large crowd stood at Le Bourget air depot waiting for the travelers. When news came from Brest that the America had passed over that port, it seemed certain that Byrd would end his goal and crown his great effort with success.

But as the hours passed and it became evident that Byrd had lost his way the people began to drift away.

Great searchlights, gliding lights—maintained at the field for the directing of airmen—were kept playing upon the black clouds throughout the night. The officials of the field were on the alert for the noise of the three-motored machine.

When it came 3 o'clock and the America had not appeared at the station at Le Bourget, it was a big disappointment, especially to the Americans gathered at the depot.

Byrd's failure to reach Le Bourget was due entirely to the weather. The mighty Fokker with her three great motors had successfully weathered the Atlantic storms and the gales off the coast. It had passed through rain and fog and wind without a pause, but the mist and the disability of the compass brought failure just as victory was in sight.

It was stated officially at the London office of Rodman Wanamaker, sponsor of the flight, that Byrd and his three associates swam ashore.

SURVEYOR DROWNED AT CLIFTON

RESCUERS ATTEMPT TO RECOVER VICTIM OF FIRST DROWNING

Famous "Blue Hole" Is Scene Of Tragedy— Body Is Sought

A state surveyor, whose name could not be learned, drowned in "Blue Hole" near Clifton, Friday afternoon about 1 o'clock.

Fellow workmen and Clifton townspeople were attempting to rescue the body at 1:30. The hole where the man drowned is almost bottomless and has been the scene of other drownings. It could not be determined by 1:30 o'clock, whether the man was swimming in the pool or had fallen in the stream.

Several surveyors have been working about the stream for some time, surveying the Bryan Farm, on which the pool is located. It is expected that rescuers will experience difficulty in finding and rescuing the body.

AVIATORS TO LEAVE HAWAII WEDNESDAY ON PASSENGER SHIP

Ignore Movement To Have Them Return On U. S. Warship

HONOLULU, July 1.—Despite reports that President Coolidge had been asked to approve their return on a warship, Lieut. Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, the first men to fly from Maui, sailing for San Francisco the United States to Hawaii, booked passage today on the liner, next Wednesday.

Arrangements of the flyers to sail on the Maui definitely squelched any possibility of Maitland and Hegenberger zooming back to the mainland in their giant Fokker.

The evening before their departure all Master Masons in Honolulu will attend a dinner in honor of the army pilots.

Maitland and Hegenberger labored with social obligations all day Thursday. A public dance in their honor at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel ended a day of official calls and personal appearances. One hundred guests were present at the dance.

At a dinner-reception before the dance, the aviators made short talks expressing appreciation for the enthusiastic welcome Honolulu gave them.

Richard Grace prepares to take off from Hawaiian islands for coast.

HONOLULU, July 1.—Richard Grace, "the aviator with the broken neck," was prepared to take off today for Santa Monica, Cal. Grace will fly alone.

He and his tiny monoplane are at Kauai awaiting late weather forecasts.

BYRD AND AMERICA CREW SAFE AFTER LANDING

COMMANDER BYRD

BERT ACOSTA

LIEUT. NOVILLE

BRENDT BALCHEN

WIFE OF COMMANDER "TICKLED" BY NEWS

BOSTON, July 1.—Mrs. Richard E. Byrd was overjoyed, her three children danced with happiness, the eight months old baby gurgled and the Arctic "Igloo" scampered about the Byrd home here today when news arrived that the brave father of the household was safe.

Throughout the night Mrs. Byrd had kept in close contact by telephone with Roosevelt Field but she never swerved in her faith that her husband would land safely.

She appeared tired after her long vigil. "Dead tired but very happy," as she expressed it, Mrs. Byrd retired for a few hours sleep, having been at or near the telephone to Roosevelt Field all night.

A messenger boy arrived with a cablegram from her husband but Mrs. Byrd was not awakened.

THESE PAPERS SETTLE GAS FIGHT

Statement filed Friday with City Auditor T. H. Zell by G. W. Kaiser and H. L. Binder, withdrawing their signatures from a petition asking for a referendum vote on the gas ordinance follows: To the clerk and members of the City Commission of the City of Xenia, Ohio:

Having heretofore, as a member of the committee of five designated in the petition filed with your commission for a referendum on the recent gas rate ordinance, joined with Frank Dean and William Howard in signing a written demand on the City Commission of the City of Xenia, Ohio, requesting, or demanding, that said Commission order a referendum election to be held on the gas ordinance recently passed by your commission and in said notice, or demand mentioned, hereby rescind my action in signing said written demand and hereby withdraw my name as one of the signers thereof.

G. W. KAISER
H. L. BINDER

Following is the gas company's formal acceptance of the ordinance passed by City Commission:

Gentlemen: The Ohio Fuel Gas Company hereby accepts the terms and conditions of that certain ordinance No. 329, passed by the commission of the City of Xenia on April 14, 1927, which said ordinance prescribes the price which the Ohio Fuel Gas Company, its successors and assigns, may charge, during the period of two (2) years from the date, on which said ordinance becomes effective, for natural, mixed or artificial gas furnished within the corporate limits of the City of Xenia, Ohio.

Very truly yours,
THE OHIO FUEL GAS CO.

DELEGATES TO OHIO Y. P. B. CONVENTION DISBANDING FRIDAY

Closing Session On Friday Morning—Dayton Visited

Delegates to the fifteenth ec-campment-convention of the Ohio
Young People's Branch, of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in session here since June 23, began to leave Xenia, Friday morning. Unfinished business of the convention was transacted Friday morning.

The closing session opened at 8:45 with a prayer and praise service led by Dallas L. Hurd, followed by assembly music, led by the state musical director, Timothy Stevens. Joanna West, state recording secretary, read the minutes of the preceding meeting, followed by the presentation of awards, reading of directors of departments, reports of committees, and other unfinished business. Ten were given gold pins for special work and thirty graduated from the study course, including eleven from Xenia.

The delegates were taken to Dayton where they visited the Dayton Soldiers' Hospital and the National Cash Register Co.

Mrs. Raina Boychek, missionary to Macedonia, discussed the habits

Thursday night. Ice cream and cake were served.

Members of the Greene County
W. C. T. U., Loyal Temperance Ligion and the Y. P. B., were highly pleased with the scope of the convention and the inspiration afforded the young people. Local workers expressed their gratitude Friday to the Xenians who extended hospitality to the delegates.

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW XENIA PAIGE AGENCY BUILDING

Contract for the erection of a one-story brick building at the rear of the Evans livery barn, N.
Whiteman St., recently purchased by H. L. Binder, has been awarded to McCurran Bros., local contracting firm.

The new structure is to replace an old frame building, which has been razed. Dimensions of the new building are to be thirty-five by sixty-five feet.

The livery barn was recently purchased as a new site for the Xenia Paige Co., which has been occupying a location on W. Main St. Extensive improvements are under way which will provide two entrances to the auto agency, one on Whiteman St. and the second on E. Main St.

McCurran Bros. are also engaged in the construction of a new sewerage disposal plant at Wilberforce University, which is expected to be completed by September
1. The project is about half finished.

TWO WOMEN FOUND HELP

Their Sickness Baniished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Nina Matteson, Box 205, Oxford, N. Y., writes—"If it had not been for your medicine, I could not have done my work as it should have been done. Mother told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had read in different papers what it had done for different women.

She wanted me to try it, so my husband got me one bottle at first;
then I took two others. Now
I am feeling quite strong again."
Mrs. Ernest Tanguay of Adams,
Mass., says she was ill for four years and could not sleep nights or go out on the street. She read about the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking eight bottles she was able to do all her work and go anywhere and is quite herself again.

This dependable Vegetable Compound is a household word in thousands of homes. The fourth generation is now learning the story of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If this medicine has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you? At your druggist's.

The Theatre

What has become of the movie stars of yesteryear? This question arises in film theater circles regularly and a new group of former favorites enters the much-mooted question with each revival. The men and women who were the film favorites of a decade ago when the silent drama was in its infancy, where are they now?

Death has claimed a few, some have married and retired from the screen, others, their brief vogue over, have slipped into oblivion or extra roles. A recent inquiry has furnished much interesting information about the stars of the past.
Marguerite Clark, once Mary Pickford's only rival, has married and has been living in New Orleans.
Mae Marsh, for whom great things were predicted when D. W. Griffith became her sponsor, has again retired, after a "come back" several years ago.

Gilbert M. Anderson, better known as "Broncho Bill," popular
"western" hero, lost money producing musical revues, and recently has been on the Pacific coast. Harold Lockwood, Wallace Reid, Earle
Williams, Max Linder, Barbara La-Marr and Olive Thomas have answered the call of the Great Director. Olga Petrova, once a Metro star, has been appearing in plays written by herself. Crane Wilbur, hero of the serial, "The Perils of Pauline," and others, in 1913 and thereabouts, is touring the country in a vaudeville sketch.

Pauline Frederick has been in London the past season, acting on screen and stage. She refuses to take supporting roles and her recent success was "Her Honor," the Governor. Nazimova has entered real estate business in California and retired from the screen. Louise Glauco left the films when the "vampire" vogue died. Ruth Roland, once queen of the serials now is very wealthy through real estate deals in Los Angeles. Pearl White, also a serial heroine, has been living in Paris the last five years. Ethel Clayton makes an occasional picture between legiti-mate engagements.

Gail Kane left the silent drama for the spoken stage. Enid Bennett, now Mrs. Fred Nible, once Doug Fairbanks' leading woman, seldom appears on the screen now. Elaine Hammerstein hasn't returned to the films since she was injured in an auto accident. Clara Kimball Young, one of the first motion picture stars, refused to take featured roles and left the films. She since has appeared in vaudeville.
Vivian Martin, one of the Fox stars has been on the legitimate stage for years. Fame in moviedom is apt to come suddenly and just as swiftly its mantle slips from the shoulders of the star of today to cover

son, Bobbie, motored to Columbus, Sunday, where they spent the day with Harry Burton and family.
Mrs. Path's little granddaughter returned home with her to spend a few days.

Rev. Clark and Miss Rev. Bertha Larson, of Chicago, took supper with Lindly Linton and family.
Rev. Miss Larson gave a very interesting talk at the church Monday evening on "Christian Education."

Cecil McElfresh gave a birthday party at his home Tuesday afternoon in honor of his twelfth birthday. Those present were: Walter, Norman, and Roy Linton, Tommy Haines, Wilfred Ary, Earl Oglesbee and Cecil McElfresh.
Several presents were given and ice cream and cake were refreshments.

Charlie Pickering and family spent Sunday with Howard Pickering and family at Pt. William.
Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs.
Harley Copsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fawcett and son, Lawrence, of Xenia and Elmer Fawcett and son, Donald, of Dayton, were the guests of Louisa Fawcett Sunday.

GRANT-SMITH VOWS

TAKEN ON THURSDAY
A profusion of rambler roses was used about the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Grant, Lower Brook Pike, Thursday afternoon, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth to Mr. Percy Smith, at 1:30 o'clock.

Forty guests witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church. The attendants were Miss Helen Grant, sister of the bride and Mr. Dean Moore. The bride party entered the living room, where the vows were taken, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. Harold Armentrout. The single ring ceremony was used.

The bride wore a gown of white georgette, trimmed with silk lace and ribbons. She carried bride's roses. Miss Helen Grant wore pink crepe and carried pink roses. Luncheon was served after the service. Covers for six were laid at the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left Thursday evening for Virginia, where they will visit relatives. They will reside on a farm near Xenia on their return.

MARION COUPLE IS MARRIED IN XENIA

Miss Virginia Shoots and Mr. Samuel Foss, both of Marion, O., were united in marriage by the Rev. R. E. Brown, at the First Baptist Church, this city, Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. The contracting parties are members of the Rev. Mr. Brown's former congregation.

Mrs. J. C. Denham played the wedding march for the ring ceremony and Miss Harriet McCarty sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." The ceremony was witnessed by the bride's mother, Mrs. Victor Shoots; Miss Nellie Myers and Mr. Clarence Bibler, all of Marion and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Myers, Marion, were the attendants.

The bride wore a becoming frock of pink georgette. Mr. and Mrs. Foss and their party returned immediately to Marion.

HYMAN-GABLE NUPTIALS IN DAYTON ON THURSDAY

Miss Celia Hyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hyman, N. Galloway St., and Mr. Sidney Gable, of this city, were married at the Jewish Temple on Jefferson St., Dayton, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Rabbi S. S. Mayerberg performed the ceremony.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rich, and the bride's parents also witnessed the vows. The bride wore dark blue georgette, with harmonizing accessories. Mrs. Rich wore rose-wood georgette.

Mr. and Mrs. Gable left on a short wedding trip. They will reside at 33 1/2 S. Detroit St. Mrs. Gable is a graduate of the class of 1920, Central High School. Mr. Gable is associated in the Xenia Iron and Metal Co.

AFTERNOON PARTY GIVEN FOR BRIDE

The Misses Agnes Copey and Wilma Shambaugh, at the home of the former, entertained with a party "shower" honoring Mrs. Ellis Frizzell, (Miss Erma Copey) last Wednesday afternoon. About eight guests were received.

During the afternoon, contests were enjoyed, prizes being won by Mrs. Glenn Ervin and Mrs. Ida Huffman, which they presented to Mrs. Frizzell. Recipes were also written, to make up a cook book, which was presented to the honor guest.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the refreshment course and in the decorations. Mrs. Frizzell received a handsome array of miscellaneous gifts.

BRIDE-ELECT FETED ON THURSDAY EVENING

A miscellaneous "shower" was given Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Byford James, honoring Miss Edna Swindler, bride-elect of Mr. Delmer McCoy.

During the evening a contest was held, Miss Ethel Beals being the winner of the prize, which was presented to the bride. Letters of advice were written for the bride. A delightful refreshment course was served. Miss Swindler received many lovely gifts.

FRIENDS MISSION SOCIETY HOLDS MEET

"When Their Missionary Came" was the title of an interesting playlet, presented by members of the Friends Church Missionary Society, at the June guest meeting, at the church, Wednesday evening.

The play and program followed the regular business meeting and was well enjoyed. The committee in charge of the meeting served ice cream and cake.

Tales Off The Reel

VOL. 1 FRIDAY JULY 1, 1927 NO. 39
"What became of that portable garage of yours?"
"Oh, I tied the dog to it and a cat came by."
Phew! Old Sol sure made a hot time in the old town the last couple of days.
There was a young man from the west. Who loved a fair maiden with zest. So hard did he press her. To make her say "Yes, sir."
That he broke four cigars in his vest.
Received shipment of Carbola the disinfecting white paint, for poultry houses, stock barns, houses, gardens, warehouses, garages, etc. It paints as well as disinfects and cheap at that.
It echoes south, it echoes north, "Where're you going to spend the Fourth?"
Hominy Hearts? We have 'em and the right kind too!
We haven't the nerve to talk coal this weather but still we contend we have the best value in town. Ask us to quote.
Charlie Mock wonders why it is, when you get awake in the night and wonder what time it is, that the clock always strikes half-past something.
One more day on that Pig Meal price, better load up and save $10 per ton. If you can't get them Saturday call us and we'll protect you.
POTATOES GOING DOWN!
Ward Grant reports while hoeing in his garden recently he noticed a disturbance as tho a mole was working. Upon investigation he found it was one potato crowding another seeking more room and as large as Jack Dempsey's fist already.
Lots of people we know always refer to it as the "Government Postoffice." Do you happen to know of any other kind? If anybody else starts one here in Xenia let's boycott him.

HOPEFUL RUPPRECHT

"Bavarians want restitution of the former rights of the royal house," said former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, addressing a peasants' meeting the other day. "The people will not be silenced until their demand for their former king is granted."

Rupprecht's remarks scarcely can be considered those of an unbiased judge, of course, and correspondents report no great popular uprising in behalf of the deposed monarchy, although unquestionably there is a strong monarchist party throughout all the states of the former German empire. The German republic is an experiment about whose ultimate success always there has been a doubt, but of late the world has been led to believe that the republican cause has been substantially reinforced.

It is barely possible that Prince Rupprecht has been misinformed about the sentiment of the Bavarians. A little drum corps can make more noise than a symphony orchestra.

HOW OUTINGS HELP

The Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and other exponents of the out-of-doors are enjoying benefits of life in the open. They see the things of the world in a new light and understand nature better. They meet friends in the same cause, swap stories and form congenial companionships. Every student of the big out-of-doors gets new object lessons, makes new resolves and forms new links of character with the day of sunshine.

Sunshine is the test of summer time. It ripens the grain and fruit and gives strength to the camper. All nature has a smiling face when the sun causes the plants to grow, the flowers to open and the fruits to mature. Sunshine induces youth to get out, amid the fields and forests, drink in the pure air and enjoy the healthfulness of exercise in the open.

There are profits in sunshine that one does not always reckon on when planning an outing in the open. It creates beauty and attractiveness and thereby adds to efficiency and usefulness. It helps in fitting one for future work and inculcates a desire for keeping young in order to continue enjoying the playfields of youth. Yes, there are countless benefits to be derived from mingling with the all-outdoors. The sun paints smiles on the cheeks of humanity in unerasable lines.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON
HERE'S A REAL FRIEND

Before a prisoner is paroled from most state prisons, he must have outside the walls a "first friend" who will vouch for him. With a new suit of clothes and a $5-bill, then, if ever, he needs a friend. There is a man in Cleveland who has organized a Voucher club. He does practically all the vouching there is. He makes himself first friend to paroled prisoners. That is service without glamour and without glory. That is the sound friendship of a man who cares.

A FAMOUS MILK MAID

Gertrude Kaiser, Iowa girl, is only 16, but she is a member of the United States championship junior dairy judging team. The milk maid's fame started in song and story. She's come a long way and she's made good. When so many boys and girls, even at 16, know what they're about, there's little need of worrying about the future.

JUST BREATHING DUST

Russian high school students are not taught the Russian classics. They do not read Shakespeare, Milton or Byron. But they are familiar with the ballyhoo and misrepresentation of Upton Sinclair. To prey on decent American institutions is merely a hobby with Sinclair. It works in well with the type of propaganda which teaches Russians the philosophy of hate.

To neglect the good books of the world to grovel with Sinclair is like choosing to pass up the air and the sunshine and breathe the dust of the alleys.

HOW HIGH IS AVERAGE THOUGHT?

An American educator says: "I am not one of those who scoff at congress. Our representatives in Washington endeavor to carry out faithfully that which they are confident is for the best interest of the whole nation. They fairly represent the average thought of our people."

Congressmen doubtless do represent the average thought of the people. But the average thought is not high. People are vastly more interested in entertainment than they are in stimulation. And they are more interested in stimulation than they are in inspiration. And they are more interested in inspiration than they are in instruction.

Tough Nuts To Crack

KELLYGRAMS by FRED C KELLY

HARNESSING COMMON SENSE

In the Treasury Department at Washington, Joseph S. McCoy, who works in comparative obscurity, is one of the most useful men connected with the government.

McCoy deals with statistics, and is by education an expert mathematician; but much more important than his knowledge of figures, is his knowledge of human nature. It is his knack for translating human nature into figures that makes his work valuable.

One of McCoy's tasks is to tell the ways and means committee of congress, or Andy Mellon, how much money a given taxation measure should produce. It does not follow that telling a tax would triple the revenue; for as a thing becomes more expensive, fewer persons buy it. If you charge ten cents admission to a picture theater, you may get a big crowd, but if you charged two dollars you might not get any paid admissions at all.

One afternoon I saw McCoy standing on a street corner counting both the automobiles and pedestrians that went by. He took a pad and pencil and did a little figuring. In a few minutes he had estimated the number of automobiles in the city. He afterward got the actual figures, and found that his estimate was practically correct. How could he tell that, after studying only one corner?

By comparing the ratio of autos and pedestrians with the total population of the city.

When there was first talk of a tax on admissions to moving picture theaters, McCoy was asked to submit estimates of the number of persons who attend movies. He had figures the next day, and they were fairly accurate.

McCoy had started his inquiry simply by asking his wife how often she went to a movie. Then he asked her how often her friends went. He happened to see a comic strip in an evening paper about a woman who went downtown ostensibly to do shopping, but who attended three picture shows, one after another. That set him thinking, and he made inquiry as to the number of women who go to more than one show each day, thus boosting the average.

He didn't have to ask in Kansas or California, but right in his own neighborhood—among people he knew. For he was willing to assume that if there are men and women in Washington who can't get enough movies to satisfy their craving, there must be just such men and women out in Idaho and elsewhere.

You see, we are about alike no matter where we live. Hence even dry statistics may be human.

Keeping HEALTHY by Dr. A. F. Currier

BLEPHARITIS

Limited in size though the structure of the eyelids may be, they are subject to a variety of diseases, and when these are inflammatory in character, they are commonly known under the general term of blepharitis.

Thus this condition may include inflammation of the glands of the border of the eyelids which are commonly known as styas, inflammation of the hair follicles from which the eyelashes are developed, inflammation due to errors of refraction, or to irritation of the conjunctiva, the mucous membrane which forms the covering of the eye, and the lids, or to inflammation of the tear duct which conducts the tears from the eye to the nose.

Even trachoma, the disease commonly known as granular lids, which is often so destructive of the mucous membrane covering the lids, and may result even in serious injury to vision, is really a form of blepharitis.

The disease can come from a variety of causes; there is the ever present possibility of injury from bacteria and parasites, the effect of strain and over-use of the eye, especially if they have been habitually used where the light is artificial and defective, or where the daylight is insufficient or improperly directed.

The appearance of eyelids, which are the seat of blepharitis, is characteristic enough. They are red and swollen at the border and yellowish crusts are constantly forming upon them which rasp and scrape the eyes and often cause much discomfort.

In bad cases the hair follicles of the lids are destroyed, the hairs forming the eyelashes falling out and the eyes thereby losing the protection which the eyelashes are designed to furnish.

In addition to this the same as in trachoma, the inflammation of the conjunctival mucous membrane, is often followed by scarring, which contracts and everts the lids and prevents the tears from running down the tear duct into the nose.

Consequently, the tears are constantly dropping over the lids upon the face, the patient has a bleary-eyed appearance, and he is annoyed by the constant necessity of using his handkerchief.

It may come at any period of life, from infancy to old age, and if one is unable to employ the services of an oculist privately, he must go to a public clinic.

The crusts upon the eyelids must be softened with warm water and removed daily, once or often, with gentleness and care.

A good nurse is capable of giving this attention, but it is usually best that the sedative or stimulating applications which may be required for the eyelids be made by a skilled oculist.

If the disease is taken in hand sufficiently early, and is properly handled, the results will, in most cases, be quite satisfactory.

How to Achieve Beauty by MME. HELENA RUBENSTEIN

SERENE MENTAL ATTITUDE CONDUCIVE TO SUMMER DAINTESS

Today in further regard to this week's subject of "Summer Daintiness from Head to Foot," I want to say a few words about keeping your mental attitude serene and untroubled because this is bound to have an important bearing upon your beauty.

It is no less important than in a calm and clear mind which subject, I have discussed in various phases during the preceding days of this week. Today, I want you to seriously consider the importance of cultivating a relaxed happy frame of mind, which will automatically eliminate hurry and worry—those two fatal drawbacks during any season of the year.

I am considering today, particularly the woman in business rather than the woman in the home, because she can easily adjust her summer schedule so as to eliminate hurry and bustle and has more opportunity to be in the country and do little else except think about keeping cool. Whereas, the woman in the city, who has a regular routine of business activity to follow each day must adopt definite warm weather plans or she will be certain to suffer from the effects of the extreme heat.

Now, by this remark, I do not mean that doing regular consistent work in summer will harm you. On the contrary, it is good for you, as it stimulates circulation and keeps the mind active. However, trying to do too much work during the very warm weather and not getting enough relaxation or fretting and fussing about petty matters will lower one's vitality, and that is something you should all try to avoid.

Therefore, my advice to you women in business, is to dress as simply and as coolly as possible. Do your work in the order which it presents itself and after you finish one task begin another, but do not try to do three or four things at one time. Do not allow anyone to hurry or fluster you. Do everything possible to keep mentally cool and composed.

Try to get out of doors as much as possible. Daylight saving time makes a game of tennis or a round of golf possible after you leave the office, especially if you live in the suburbs. Spend as many weeks as possible in the country indulging in swimming, golf, tennis or other summer sports.

On days that seem interminably hot and sultry, drink plenty of cold water (not iced but clear and cold.) Lemonade and orangeade are also cooling and palatable. Another cooling drink that agrees with almost anyone is made as follows:

1-4 teaspoonful cream of tartar, Juice of 1-2 lemons, 1 glass of cool water, sweeten to taste.

Many Minds SIGNIFICANT SAYINGS OF THE DAY

"With their rise in the world women are losing their three weapons: deceit, cruelty and lying."—Gelett Burgess, American satirist.

"Man is not and never can be a means . . . in the creation, man is really the end and center about which everything is organized."—Pope John XI.

"The human race being still practically barbarian, it does not seem likely that men's delight in cruel sports can be lessened except by slow degrees."—Thomas Hardy, English writer.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, July 1.—Head waiters are princelings in a miniature empire, and every big hotel is a confederation of state of which the maitre d'hotel is the czar and the proprietor the prime minister. There are strict lines of caste, ranging all the way from the maitre d'hotel to the lowly bus-boy and washroom attendant.

Next below the maitre d'hotel is the chef, who is supreme ruler in the kitchen and who demands subservience from the cooks, the broilers and friends. The cooks, in turn, treat the dish washers and scullery maids with aristocratic condescension. And the dish washers tilt their noses in the presence of the floor-moppers and garbage attendants and do not speak to them except in the voice of command or abuse.

The head waiter is the kaiser in the dining room, and to him the captains (who are often mistaken for head waiters because they show people to tables and do not wait on the tables themselves) are meek and mental. The captains are tyrants to the waiters and regard them as social inferiors. The waiters, in their turn, regard the bus-boys as low worms to whom they must never speak in terms of equality. The bus boy is the lowest in the social scale, sharing the last rung with the wash-room attendants.

Having no one in the hotel empire to whom they can be arrogant and surly without losing their jobs, the washroom attendants and bus boys take it out on the customers. The head waiter, and even the waiter, may be obsequious and all smiles to a patron, but the bus-boy and the washroom attendant feel under no obligation to be so. The bus-boy will rake crumbs in to your lap, overflow your glass from a decanter so that the water runs down over your clothes and makes the tablecloth so damp you can't put your hand on it comfortably, or scowl at you and pay no attention to you when you ask for an ash tray. The washroom attendant will be rude where the head waiter is polite, because, like the bus-boy, the washroom attendant has no social status to lose.

Head waiters always dine in state, usually in a private room, attended by two or three waiters who are eager to please them. They demand perfect service and will criticize the slightest deviation from the fixed placing of a spoon or fork, and when they criticize, it is with the expletives of a German junker reprimanding a subordinate. Few persons ever get the service accorded a head waiter.

But the chef gets better food. Often there is a feud between the chef and the head waiter and the chef orders the cooks to cook the meats well done when the head waiter wants them underdone, and to serve him bad cuts and vegetable seconds. But the chef himself gets the best of everything. His cooks see to that. He is very critical and the cooks owe their jobs to him. The best meals I have ever eaten in my life were as the guest of chefs in a big hotel. The salary of one of these chefs is $20,000 a year.

At large dinners of fraternities and other social organizations it is frequently the rule not to allow tips to be collected at the tables. In such cases the tips are arranged for in a lump sum, paid before the banquet to the head waiter. The head waiter allots a certain amount of this money to the captains, who in turn divide up with the waiters, who in turn divide with the bus-boys.

Rich or poor? Young or old, all suffer from intestinal stasis (constipation). The cause can be told with one word—That word is "Civilization." It means "over-eating," "over-work," "worry" and "nervous enervation," wrong foods, wrong drinks! Not enough animal exercise, such as running, jumping, walking, climbing, etc.

The nervous force that should go to the bowels-nerves is taken by the brain or other parts of the body, to perform "civilized duties—or excesses."

Avoid all the causes you can! You can't avoid all of them, therefore you may need the aid of Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills, to nourish and tone-up the bowels-nerves; to stimulate the liver; to cleanse and purify the 32 feet of intestines where delayed activity has made poisons which cause biliousness, sick headache, irritable, grouchy feelings, and impaired efficiency in work or play.

Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills are non-secret, prompt, and pleasant, sold by druggists for 25 years and "Better Than Castor Oil." 45 pills—30 cts.

THIS MORNING'S PANCAKES

THIS morning's pancakes were so good. My folks refused all other food. The other courses went to waste. Before the pancakes' perfect taste.

Tom poured the maple syrup thick, And with appreciative lick, So scraped and tarried at his plate, The school-bell rang, and he was late.

The family cleared a mammoth platter— I made a second batch of batter. Each pancake was ambrosial stuff— It seemed they could not get enough.

This most delightful breakfast feat I am unlikely to repeat. And lest I be too much on trial, I shan't serve pancakes for a while!

SENIOR BUSINESS MEN BEAT KIWANIS IN SOFT BALL GAME

Senior Business Men forced the Kiwanis Club at little deeper in the dugout and assumed second place in the Xenia Playground League by trouncing Kiwanis 16 to 11 in a well-played soft ball game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Thursday night.

The contest was nip and tuck for five innings but the business men forged into a substantial lead in the sixth and followed with three more runs in the eighth while Kiwanians were being blanked.

Gibney pitched for the winners with Downey and Cain behind the plate. Downey was forced to retire in the fourth by a slight injury. Ballantyne and Huston twirled for Kiwanis with Bell catching.

Boy Scouts will meet the league-leading Junior Business Men Friday night.

HOT WEATHER TAKES THREE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 1.—Record-breaking hot weather killed three persons in Chicago today, bringing the total of dead for a three-day period of torrid weather to twenty-seven.

The thermometer registered 86 degrees this morning and no relief was promised until night.

The heat wave is general over the mid-west, centering in Chicago.

COOLIDGE PLEASED
WASHINGTON, July 1.—President Coolidge today transmitted a cablegram of congratulations to Commander Byrd.

"I send you my sincere congratulations, on your successful flight across the Atlantic," the message said. "I have followed your distinguished and courageous career in aerial navigation with interest and admiration."

Your flight to the North Pole proved the effectiveness of the airplane in adding to the scientific knowledge of the unexplored surface of the world, and I am sure your present flight will notably advance our knowledge of conditions which must be met and conquered to make trans-oceanic aerial navigation commercially practicable and safe."

TRIANGLE LEAGUE TEAMS KNOTTED IN STANDING OF LOOP

An unusual situation exists in the six-team Triangle Baseball League, in that each team is involved in a tie.

The Bowersville Bayliffs, by winning Sunday while Spring Valley was losing, tied the latter team for first place, each with five victories and three defeats.

Wilmington and Waynesville are tied for second place, half a game behind the leaders, while the Dayton Modern Woodmen of America and Jamestown are also deadlocked, each with the same percentage.

Bowersville will play at Waynesville Sunday at 3 p. m.

League standing follows:

| Team | Won. | Lost. |
|---------------|------|-------|
| Bowersville | 5 | 3 |
| Spring Valley | 5 | 3 |
| Wilmington | 5 | 4 |
| Waynesville | 5 | 4 |
| Woodmen | 3 | 6 |
| Jamestown | 3 | 6 |

FORMER XENIA BOY PITCHES GOOD BALL

If anybody is entitled to special credit for the sensational showing of the John T. Murphy baseball team in the Class A division of the Kentucky Post Amateur Association, it is Earl Milburn, southpaw, a Xenia product.

The sensational pitching of the local boy, who was recently acquired by "Hap" Haney, Murphy manager, has been one of the features of the circuit and the main factor in his team's good showing in the league.

Milburn has made three starts on the mound, winning each game impressively. He is slated to oppose Independence Sunday in an exhibition game at Independence.

FLYERS EXHAUSTED BY THRILLING TRIP

VER-SUR-MER, France, July 1.—The four flying aces of the monoplane "America" were in a state of collapse after their thrilling trans Atlantic flight and forced landing in the English channel early today.

When Vice Mayor Coiffier and his two sons were routed out of bed by the two fishermen who went to the rescue of Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three companions they found the flyers on the beach—exhausted.

Commander Byrd and Lieut. Bernt Balchen were lying on the sandy beach in a state of collapse. Balchen, a hardy Norwegian, was fully as exhausted as Byrd. The fishermen did not know the identity of the men until Coiffier asked Byrd who he was.

Bert Acosta, the black-haired pilot of the plane and Lieut. George O. Noville, the radio expert, were found a short distance up the beach near the lighthouse, both of them in a weakened condition.

SNOWBALLS MISSING-PERISH THE THOUGHT

Strange as it may seem, the picture above was not taken any time this week. The kids were caught by the camera pushing the snowballs around during the first snowfall. But that was last winter and therefore another story. When the kids went back Friday to get the snowballs, they were gone. Anyone having any information as to where these snowballs went, please call Chief of Police M. E. Graham.

ROOSEVELT FIELD REJOICES AS NEWS OF BYRD'S ARRIVAL COMES

Wives Happy But Calm On Learning Husbands Had Reached Europe—All Were Confident, They Say.

NEW YORK, July 1.—There was great rejoicing, especially at Roosevelt Field, early today when the news was flashed from Paris that Commander Richard E. Byrd and his fellow flyers in the Fokker monoplane America were safe on the French coast, having been forced by bad weather to land at Vers-sur-mer, instead of Le Bourget, their destination.

As soon as the news was received at Roosevelt Field Grover Whalen, representative of Rodman Wanamaker, financial backer of the flight, telephoned the news to Mrs. Byrd at Boston.

"I am very happy to hear it," cried Mrs. Byrd over the telephone. "It is fine news."

Mr. Whalen telephoned also to Thomas Byrd, at Winchester, Va. Mrs. Noville, wife of Lieut. George O. Noville, and Mrs. Acosta, wife of Bert Acosta, were still at the hangar at Roosevelt Field when the cable arrived announcing the landing of the America.

The two women remained calm when they heard the news. They said that, while they had been worried, they felt sure all would come out all right.

The two wives remained seated while Whalen accompanied by the reporters went into the executive office to locate Vers-sur-mer upon the map.

After poring over the map for considerable time Mr. Whalen announced that Vers-sur-mer is on the channel coast, 120 miles from Calais, about fifty miles from Cherbourg and about thirty miles from the mouth of the River Seine.

Mrs. Acosta had a worn look on her face but she smiled at the reporters as they dashed out of the office with their geographical lore. One of the first things she asked, after she learned that the flyers were safe, was whether the plane had been damaged.

COUNTY WILL ISSUE BONDS TO FINANCE HOME REPAIR WORK

County Commissioners have adopted a resolution authorizing a bond issue of $914.92 to defray the cost of repairing the Greene County Children's Home by the installation of a hot water system.

Maturities of the bonds are to be met by substantially equal annual installments.

The serial bonds of the county to be sold are numbered one to nine and will be of $100 denomination each, with the exception of one bond for $114.92. They will be dated from September 1, 1928.

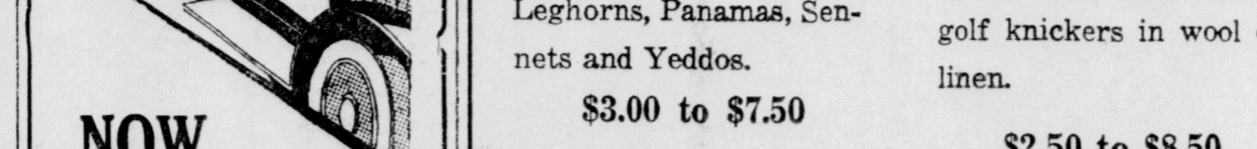

The bonds, bearing 6 per cent annual interest, will fall due as follows: $214.92, September 1, 1928; $200, September 1, 1929; $300, September 1, 1930; and $200, September 1, 1931.

Taxes for the bonds will first appear on the 1928 tax duplicate. According to the resolution, the bonds will first be offered to the county sinking fund trustees, and if rejected, will be offered at public sale.

MAYOR'S COURT

TRIALS HELD
William Derrick, Edmund McCormick and Walter Covell were to stand trial before Mayor John W. Prugh Friday afternoon on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct.

They were arrested Thursday by Patrolmen Fred Jones, Ed Craig and Charles Thompson, pleaded not guilty, and furnished appearance bond Friday morning.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. LUCETTA E. FOGLE

Mrs. Lucetta E. Fogle, 82, died Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George A. Confer, Yellow Springs. She had been in failing health for the last year of paralysis.
She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Yellow Springs. Mrs. Fogle was reared near New Jasper, but had spent most of her life near Yellow Springs.
Besides her daughter, Mrs. Fogle leaves six grandchildren: F. W. Confer, and E. C. Confer, of Xenia; R. H. Confer, Mrs. John F. Parker, Mrs. Dewey L. Husted and Miss Gladys Confer, all of Springfield and also seven great-grandchildren.
Funeral services will be held at the daughter's home at 2 p. m. Sunday afternoon. Burial will be made in Byron Cemetery.

SEEKS ATTENDANCE

W. H. Donges of Xenia has been appointed a member of the attendance committee for the annual meeting of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association at Cedar Point July 18-22. He will have charge of the delegation from Greene and Clinton Counties.
Advertising and co-operative buying are to be among the subjects discussed.

jects discussed. Mr. Donges has been authorized to select drug-gists from Greene and Clinton Counties to enter the various contests which have been arranged as a feature of the program.

NO MAIL DELIVERY ON FOURTH OF JULY

The Xenia Post Office will observe a holiday schedule Monday, the Fourth of July, according to Postmaster C. S. Frazer, who declares no city or rural deliveries will be made.
Following the usual custom, the lobby of the post office will remain open for patrons having letter boxes, and mails will be received and dispatched as usual, he announces.

ARRANGE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Perry A. Alexander, 70, retired farmer and president of the board of trustees of the Greene County Children's Home, who was found dead in bed Thursday morning, will be held at his residence, 449 N. King St. at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Interment will be made in the Spring Valley Cemetery.

RECORD QUAKE

LONDON, July 1.—An earthquake was registered by the seismograph at Kew at 9:23 o'clock this morning, believed to be in the direction of the island of Crete, in the Balkan area.

LUTTRELL BUYS OUT PARTNER'S INTEREST

Lawrence Luttrell has purchased the entire stock in the Luttrell Grocery and the store was moved from W. Church St. to the Regal Hotel Building, 105 E. Main St. Friday, it has been announced. Mr. Luttrell has been in partnership with James Baxter, who sold his stock to take employment in the composing room of the Dayton Daily News.

The grocery, formerly the Bradstreet Grocery, was moved two years ago from Green to W. Church St.
The truck service in Xenia City is being discontinued this week and only one truck will be operated in the country. It has been decided by Mr. Luttrell. The grocery has been operating two trucks in the city.

LANCASTER CORDS BALLOONS

FEDERAL BLUE PENNANT CORDS BALLOONS

The Development of Years of Research in the Use of Balloon Principles

You Can't "Pinch" Them

Their construction and design positively avoid the necessity of over-inflating the tires to insure long service. You can run them at genuine low air pressures and get the comfort that balloon tires are intended to give. Special treatment of the Cord meets perfectly the continuous flexing of the balloon type.

Federal side-walls are extra thick and patented cord construction allows unusual flexibility. Even at extremely low pressures there is no "rim-wear" or pinching.

You Can't "Ride 'em Out"

Lancaster Tread is thicker and harder than most tires, resisting road shocks much better, causing the wear to be slow and evenly distributed over each tread block.

Federal Blue Pennant Tread is famous for its wear. Unusually wide bearing surfaces on an extra thick tread gives extremely big mileage. Federal Balloons are adding to the 30 years record of Federal Tires.

A Tire for Every Purpose

|---|---------------|-------------------------------|---------------------|
| Regular Passenger Car Cords | Full Balloons | Real Interchangeable Balloons | Truck and Bus Cords |
| With two such standard makes as LANCASTER and FEDERALs we are peculiarly well equipped to advise impartially the proper tire for each car or truck. We have no objective in suggesting any other than the best tire for you; that is also the best tire for us. | | | |

Without These You Can't Live!

If you take from your food entirely, Calcium, Phosphorus, Iron, Magnesium—you wither and die.

Reduce the amount your body and brain should have and you soon become afflicted with nerve-trouble, gland-trouble, anemia, weakness, digestive disorders, infected teeth, headache, lowered vitality, fatigue, a tendency to have colds frequently and a general debilitated state of the system. Your system is "unbalanced"! Modern methods of preparing food has robbed you of certain necessary elements, and all you may need to do is—Get back your "balance".

It is absolutely essential to supply the needed elements if you wish to enjoy the best of health. For fifteen years, physicians have prescribed the elements contained in Cadomene Tablets. The ingredients are printed on the label. Using Cadomene, the improvement is prompt. Within a

BABIES
KILLED YEARLY!

125,000 babies are killed every year because their parents do not know how to feed them.

Another 125,000 babies die every year because parents, in their ignorance, do not know other simple rules of the hygiene of infancy!

If you are the parent of a child, or expecting to be the parent of a child, you owe it to yourself, the child and the world, to know all you can about that child and its physical needs.

Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters, a specialist in child-care, will instruct you, free of charge, in the art of bringing up a "better baby" in her articles.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

A book-house for their dollies

Is one of their latest follies. The boys had gone off on a fishing trip and the girl members of the Ritz club were trying to find something real exciting to do. When they pulled out their paper dolls from the shelves of the little wardrobe where Patsy had tucked them away, they found them all covered with dust.

"Poor neglected things," soothed Betty Ann, as she dusted them off and laid them out on the floor. The girls had been so interested in their outdoor fish pond and their vegetable garden that they had forgotten all about their paper dolls.

"Let's make a house for them," suggested Patsy.

"What kind of a house?" asked Betty Ann. Surely Patsy didn't think they could make a wooden doll-house all by themselves!

"A paper house!" cried Patsy, becoming more and more excited over her idea. "Come, let's see what we can find among the old magazines in the attic," and grabbing her little friend by the hand she

"Oh, I see," said Betty Ann. "Each page will be some room of the house with pictures of the kind we would like for our own."

"That's it," answered Patsy. "Then when a guest doll calls, she can go from one room to the other as we turn the pages. We will have a sun parlor, all bright and gay, a gold and black den for the papa doll, nursery for the children, and a white tile bathroom and everything. Why, we can have everything we want for our paper doll-house. Even a play-house out on the lawn if we can find a picture

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

Philip Wynne Tracy IV has had a childish engagement with Natalie Jones. Becoming interested in Lyra Hilliard, an old friend of his mother's, he finds himself falling in love with her. Natalie, overhearing him making love to Lyra, breaks her engagement. It all comes to nothing, however, because America enters the war.

Philip enlists and is soon in France. Just before leaving, Phil meets Natalie again and they plan to be married. The immediate departure of the troops, however, prevents this.

Soon after arriving in France Phil is wounded and is decorated for bravery.

While convalescent, armistice is declared and Phil returns to Paris. His mother goes to France, accompanied by Major Ashland, devoted to her. Unexpectedly she comes face to face with her son.

Mrs. Tracy learns that Phil intends to marry Pat, a French divorcee with a four-year-old child. She refuses her consent to the marriage, and after Phil's discharge they return to America.

Mrs. Tracy invites Natalie to their home the first morning after their return. Natalie seems cold and suspicious to her mother. She explains that she is interested in Jerry Kravine, her father's young partner in business.

About this time Phil receives a letter from Pat, telling him that a marriage has been arranged between herself and a wealthy Frenchman. Back at heart, Phil's thoughts turn to Lyra Hilliard, and he phones her long distance. They arrange a meeting for the next night. Phil starts out to keep his trust.

From the story further articles.

CHAPTER IV

PHIL HILLIARD SNEEZED. Little attention to his sneeze, but as the night sped on and he almost had the road to himself, he stopped on the way and watched the speedometer mark 30, 40, and finally 50 miles with a kind of triumph.

Just then, alone on the moon-lit highway, he discovered a car. The car was dark, and he was puzzled to find that he was looking at a car that he had been told he had seen in the future. He would pick up the tangled threads and straighten them out. He would make something of himself after all.

His thoughts flew back to that morning so long ago when he was first going to see Lyra—the morning he met her at the train, and to his surprise and joy he found that he was at least touching the garments of the youth he had lost somewhere over there in France.

ON he drove through the darkness. For the moon had set, and the sun had not yet begun to dye the eastern sky with rose and gold. He looked at the meter. By the dash-light's glow he found he had gone 250 miles. He decided he was sleepy, and as he was entering a small town, he drove to the hotel on the main street, ordered his car taken to the best garage and brought back at 9 o'clock.

Then he went up to the room assigned him and in less than 10 minutes was fast asleep.

For a moment Philip could not tell where the jangling noise was coming from, but when he fully awakened he caught up the telephone receiver and was told that it was half-past eight and his breakfast would be on the table, as he had ordered, in 15 minutes.

With a cold shower, a hurried slipping into his clothes, and a happy realization that the mood of the night before had not left him, Philip Wynne Tracy IV went down to breakfast.

HE felt like a small boy who was playing hooky. No one knew where he was. Only Lyra was looking for his coming. For the first time since he started home, he ate his American breakfast, from fruit to cakes and maple syrup, with an appetite.

By the time he had finished and paid his bill, his car was at the door, surrounded by a group of small boys to whom a Rolls Royce roadster was something they had dreamed about, but never expected to see.

"Are you the Prince of Wales?" asked the littlest one, shyly.

"No," answered Phil with a laugh, "but I'm a prince just the same, and I am about to take possession of my kingdom. Come on, youngsters, perhaps you can all pile in or on the car, and I'll take you for a little ride."

Putting two of them on the seat beside him and four in the rumble behind, with four piled on the fenders, Phil cheerfully lost about 50 miles in the next hour.

They dropped off one by one, however, and when the smallest was set down by the street car track, with a silver dollar to pay his way back to town, Phil said, rather wistfully, "With me luck, old chap."

"With you, you've got all the luck in the world now," answered the boy in surprise.

"Have I? I hope you're right," Phil returned as he started his car on its way.

TWO hundred and fifty miles by 8 o'clock that night was rather strenuous, he thought, as he stepped on the gas. His gay mood was wearing off a little, but as he reached the city in which Mrs. Hilliard lived and saw the golden rim of the moon rising, his heart began to beat faster.

"She will probably think I am crazy to go to see her in a dinner coat," he thought, well knowing that if she did not understand and remember that on their last ride, both of them were in evening dress, he would be greatly disappointed.

His morning appetite had vanished, but he managed to eat a little something, and at 9 o'clock sharp he was at Lyra Hilliard's home.

HE had expected her to come to the door to meet him and was hurt when he found himself ushered into the drawing-room by a maid.

Lyra Hilliard came forward to meet him. The thought that was uppermost in his mind the first time he saw her, persisted in coming again. "Why, she is old."

"Phillip, dear, you cannot tell how glad I am to see you."

Quite naturally she slipped into his arms. As his lips met hers, he felt for the moment the same old thrill.

He discovered that her skin was just as satiny and cool as ever, as his mouth dropped from her lips to her throat, and when he lifted his head from where it had snuggled into the curve between her neck and shoulder, he caught again that mysterious translucency that made her skin look as though it were lighted from within.

"LYRA, Lyra, why did you write me that cruel letter?" he asked, when he had led her back to the big, deep-cushioned chair, and seated himself on the arm of it.

"Because Anne said that I had ruined you, body and soul, and I—well, dear, I suppose I have some pride, and I wanted to make her understand that I could hurt you worse by leaving you than by staying with you. But it's all over now, dear boy. You are here close to me. I can look into your eyes and see that however much you have changed—you have grown so thin—and your mouth is hard and serious—but inside you are the same Phillip I used to know—the one wonderful gesture of youth—the one I have never found before or since."

"Oh, Lyra, I have missed you so." Phillip was honest in his assertion now that he was with her. He did not realize that he had barely remembered her from the time he went away until he found that everything else about his homecoming had disappeared.

The woman beside him reached up her hand and touched his cheek, but she said nothing.

Lyra Hilliard did not doubt he thought he was telling the truth, but she knew he had not missed her as she had missed him.

However, she could not lose this one last flare of emotion. She made herself believe that Phil had been lonely for her—lonely as she had been for him.

"Do you know, sweetheart, you are the only thing that has not disappointed me since I came home. I had decided that life was not worth living, but now, darling, you have made me think that I shall again taste all the first things. Do you know, dear, it was you that first made me appreciate the moonlight, pouring silver sparkles all over the river below. It was you that made me think that life was going to be one long chain of joyful days. It was you that made me glad that I was young. Dearest, the sight of you has made me young again. The feel of your caressing hands upon my face sends my blood like quicksilver through my veins."

"Dear Phillip, I think you are the only poet I have ever known."

"You made me one, sweetheart."

Phillip feels his love for Lyra returning; but Lyra is afraid. Read how she solves the problem in the chapters that follow.

PLENTY TROUBLE! JULY 4th and TIRES!

Socrates says to Cleopatra that it never rains when it can pour and Calvin replied that a black berry on the bush is worth a heap more than any ole bird if you are hungry for berries than which there was never spoke a more true word! All of which leads up to the problem now facing this firm I am working for as Press Agent.

Carroll comes out where I was frying a fish and lifting the flap of the tent says: "Do you realize Shorty that next Monday is Fourth of July, and that the entire population of Greene County will climb up in their cars and move about on RUBBER?" And I says sezzi:

"Prosperity! Prosperity!"

"Cut that out!" says Carroll. "What do you mean by imitating my partner thatta way! Your job here is to get people in here to buy TIRES so they can run their cars so they can buy gas so they can use one of our batteries and a heap of our Oil. You get busy and write AT ONCE an ad of some kind which will bring in TIRE SALES!"

He went away from there in a fast way and up until now I have NOT thought of any particularly GOOD way to advertise TIRES. This is going to be a big disappointment to this firm for I personally know that they just got in ONE carload of brand NEW TIRES and are expecting ANOTHER CARLOAD TODAY! What they will do with all these TIRES if I can't think of a good ad to write I do NOT know. Tires are no good to any one unless he's or she's got a wheel to put them on and a wheel is no good to any one unless they have some place to put the wheel. So I reckon they're all outta luck for THIS week.

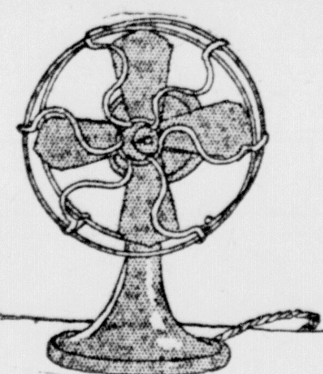

It's my intention to go fishing Monday and I've heard a lot of other people say the same thing. One does NOT need a TIRE to go fishing so far as I can see.

Mebbe NEXT week I will think of some good way to advertise TIRES for the 4th of July, I dunno.

Yours truly,

Shorty

BYRD ALIGHTS SAFELY IN CHANNEL GAS RATE ORDINANCE STANDS

BINDER AND KAISER WITHDRAW DEMANDS FOR RATE ELECTION

Action Eliminates Vote And Forestalls Higher Gas Rate

The gas rate controversy ended abruptly Friday with an unexpected eleventh-hour victory for City Commission, saving Xenia natural gas consumers from paying The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. what otherwise would have eventually been a sixty-cent rate per 1,000 cubic feet.

The successful termination of the dispute came when H. L. Binder and G. W. Kaiser filed with City Auditor T. H. Zell Friday morning, a written withdrawal of their signatures from a petition filed Thursday demanding that the Commission provide for a special election and submission of the question to the people, under the referendum provisions of the city charter.

Binder and Kaiser gave no explanation of the sudden change in their attitude. Officials of the gas company were immediately notified and the firm's Xenia representative, again submitted the company's acceptance of the ordinance to the commission.

The gas ordinance which will become effective almost immediately, is operative for two years and contains no increase in the previous fifty-cent rate per 1,000 cubic feet of the fuel consumed, originally sought.

The ordinance provides for a $1 service charge for the first 500 feet of cubic gas used, or less, but an extra concession was obtained eliminating the $1 service charge if no gas is used. A penalty of five per cent is provided for failure to pay bills promptly by the first of the month, and the five per cent discount for prompt payment is eliminated.

It is estimated that acceptance of the present gas ordinance means that Xenians will pay $24.311.10 less per year for the fuel than in the event an entirely new schedule providing for a sixty-cent rate, which the company proposed to file with the state utilities commission if an election had been ordered, was placed in effect.

The gas company had filed its acceptance of its own ordinance June 22 following the passage by City Commission, but conditional that if an election on the question was ordered, the firm retained the option of withdrawing it.

The withdrawal was made when opposition to the ordinance arose. Facing the necessity of certifying an order for the holding of a special election to the board of elections by midnight, Saturday, City Commission had failed to take scheduled action on the matter at its regular meeting Thursday night.

Commissioners unanimously voted to recess until 8:30 p. m. Saturday until legal advice could be obtained from City Solicitor J. A. Finney as to what course of procedure to adopt. The city solicitor was unable to attend Thursday's meeting because of illness in his family.

With the situation now clarified and the possibility of an expensive election averted, Commissioners decided to meet at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and wind up routine details regarding the matter, including taking note of the action of Binder and Kaiser in rescinding all of their previous actions.

The names of Frank Dean and William Howard remain on the demand for an election but the committee is controlled by the majority.

NOT TO PROSECUTE WRECK CAR CREWS

DAYTON, O., July 1.—Crews involved in the Dayton and Troy interurban car crash last Saturday, when four were killed, will not be criminally prosecuted, it was announced here today by Coroner Torrence, following an inquest. The motorman on one of the cars was killed, another injured when he jumped. Blame for the collision was not fixed in the coroner's report.

TRANSFER ALLEGED SLAYERS' JAILS

BOSTON, July 1.—Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, under sentence from a death sentence for the slaying of a payroll master and his wife, were unexpectedly and secretly transferred from Norfolk City Jail, Dedham, to state prison at Charlestown, early today.

"Ought To Be Kicked" Said Byrd

VER-SUR-MER, France, July 1.—"We had a great flight. Imagine seeing nothing for nineteen hours!" Commander Richard E. Byrd of the giant Fokker monoplane America, who, dramatic transatlantic flight ended at 2:32 o'clock this morning when the plane plunged into the English Channel, made this statement to International News Service today as he graphically described the thrilling flight.

Two fishermen, attracted by the hum of the motor, helped the flyers reach the beach. They conducted Byrd and Lieut. Bert Balchen, the passenger, to the home of Vice Mayor Coiffier, Bert Acosta, the pilot, and Lieut. George O. Noville, the radio expert, were taken to the lighthouse where they were put to bed.

All four flyers were dead tired and fell asleep at once. Byrd awoke at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon and went by automobile to the city hall to meet the mayor of Ver-Sur-Mer. He was attired in a rain coat and a naval hat with gilt braid. He announced that he was preparing a statement to the press.

"Congratulations," said this correspondent to the noted navigator. "Well," replied Byrd, slowly, his genial countenance breaking into a sad smile. "I ought to be kicked."

The commander seemed to be very tired he had had only a few hours sleep.

Before going to bed Byrd insisted upon sending a cablegram to his wife in Boston.

"When we landed in the water," Byrd said, "both of the wings of the plane broke off at once."

His greatest concern upon arising after a brief nap was to get his plane ashore and disassemble it.

"We think we landed about 200 yards out from Ver-Sur-Mer," said Byrd, "but we are not sure. I am pleased to hear you tell me that Le Bourget field ceased to bear out automatic signals at 1:15 a. m. because that will aid us in determining what time we did come down."

The under prefect of the Calvados department told Byrd that he had received telephone instructions from President Gaston Doumergue of France to present his congratulations. Byrd thanked the official. He asked the prefect if he could get in touch immediately with the naval attaché who meanwhile had left Paris for Ver-Sur-Mer.

PARIS, July 1.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three fellow transatlantic flyers who spanned the Atlantic in the mighty Fokker monoplane America through storms and fog, are safe.

The America landed at 2:32 o'clock this morning in the channel 200 yards off the coast at Ver-Sur-Mer, in the Department of Calvados, not far from Havre. This is 125 miles from Paris.

After being missing for hours, during which they cruised through rain and thick mist over France, the airmen turned up safe and sound, allaying the anxiety that had grown up overnight for their safety.

The America was in the air approximately forty-three hours.

Byrd and his companions landed in the channel after running out of gas and oil while seeking the mouth of the Seine, less than fifty miles away.

The American flyers had taken to their collapsible rubber boat when they landed in the water and two fishermen helped tow them to the coast.

Throughout the early morning, within the grasp of the gallant air- hours all France, both the ground men beneath and the sky above, was combed for the missing Americans. It was not until 8:30 o'clock that the exact schedule was not maintained with the clock-like regularity maintained by Col. Lindbergh.

Two of the most disappointed persons in the big crowd that stood around in the rain in Le Bourget field all night were Vice Consuls Smith and O'Brien who had arranged to take charge of the mail that the America carried addressed to prominent European officials.

The prefect of police at Caen, near the spot where the plane came down, told International News Service that the Americans had "made a safe landing," indicating that it was not damaged to any great extent.

The fact that the plane came down on the coast aroused the suspicion that it had traveled considerable distance inland, swinging in a great circle back towards the Atlantic.

Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, who had preceded Byrd and his companions on the trans-oceanic hop, were among the first to be notified of the safe landing of the Americans on the coast.

"I am glad they're safe and they can claim success for they flew from New York to France without a stop," exclaimed the two Americans in unison.

Chamberlin and Levine said they fully appreciated difficulties of the flight Byrd had made and they praised the air worthy qualities of the Fokker plane.

"I will surely be glad to congratulate Byrd and his fellow aviators," said Chamberlin.

"And so will I," added Levine. Capt. R. D. White, naval attaché of the United States embassy, and a group of officials left Paris at 10:45 in two automobiles for Ver-Sur-Mer to bring the flyers back to Paris.

Byrd would find his goal and crown his great effort with success.

But as the hours passed and it became evident that Byrd had lost his way the people began to drift away.

Great searchlights, gliding lights—maintained at the field for the directing of airmen were kept playing upon the black rain clouds throughout the night. The officials of the field were on the alert for the noise of the three-motored machine.

When it came 3 o'clock and the America had not appeared at the station at Le Bourget, he became convinced that the Americans had been forced down somewhere. It was a big disappointment, especially at the depot.

Byrd's failure to reach Le Bourget was due entirely to the weather. The mighty Fokker with her three great motors had successfully weathered the Atlantic storms and the gales off the coast. It had passed through rain and fog and wind without a pause, but the mist and the disability of the compass brought failure just as victory was in sight.

FLYERS FORCED DOWN BY EXHAUSTING GAS WHEN HUNTING PARIS

SURVEYOR DROWNED AT CLIFTON

RESCUERS ATTEMPT TO RECOVER VICTIM OF FIRST DROWNING

Famous "Blue Hole" Is Scene Of Tragedy— Body Is Sought

A state surveyor, whose name could not be learned, drowned in "Blue Hole" near Clifton, Friday afternoon about 1 o'clock.

Fellow workmen and Clifton townpeople were attempting to rescue the body at 1:30. The hole where the man drowned is almost bottomless and has been the scene of other drownings. It could not be determined by 1:30 o'clock, whether the man was swimming in the pool or had fallen in the stream.

Several surveyors have been working about the stream for some time, surveying the Bryan Farm, on which the pool is located. It is expected that rescuers will experience difficulty in finding and rescuing the body.

The withdrawal was made when opposition to the ordinance arose. Facing the necessity of certifying an order for the holding of a special election to the board of elections by midnight, Saturday, City Commission had failed to take scheduled action on the matter at its regular meeting Thursday night.

Commissioners unanimously voted to recess until 8:30 p. m. Saturday until legal advice could be obtained from City Solicitor J. A. Finney as to what course of procedure to adopt. The city solicitor was unable to attend Thursday's meeting because of illness in his family.

BYRD AND AMERICA CREW SAFE AFTER LANDING

COMMANDER BYRD

BERT ACOSTA

LIEUT. NOVILLE

BRENDT BALCHEN

WIFE OF COMMANDER "TICKLED" BY NEWS

BOSTON, July 1.—Mrs. Richard E. Byrd was overjoyed, her three children danced with happiness, the eight months old baby gurgled and the Arctic terrier "Igloo" scampered about the Byrd home here today when news arrived that the brave father of the household was safe.

Throughout the night Mrs. Byrd had kept in close contact by telephone with Roosevelt Field but she never swerved in her faith that her husband would land safely. She appeared tired after her long vigil.

"Dead tired but very happy," as she expressed it. Mrs. Byrd retired for a few hours sleep, having been at or near the telephone to Roosevelt Field all night.

A messenger boy arrived with a cablegram from her husband but Mrs. Byrd was not awakened.

THESE PAPERS SETTLE GAS FIGHT

Statement filed Friday with City Auditor T. H. Zell by G. W. Kaiser and H. L. Binder, withdrawing their signatures from a petition asking for a referendum vote on the gas ordinance follows:

To the clerk and members of the City Commission of the City of Xenia, Ohio:

Having heretofore, as a member of the committee of five designated in the petition filed with your commission for a referendum on the recent gas rate ordinance, joined with Frank Dean and William Howard in signing a written demand on the City Commission of the City of Xenia, Ohio, requesting, or demanding, that said Commission order a referendum election to be held on the gas ordinance recently passed by your commission and in said notice, or demand mentioned, I hereby rescind my action in signing said written demand and hereby withdraw my name as one of the signers thereof.

G. W. KAISER
H. L. BINDER

Following is the gas company's formal acceptance of the ordinance passed by City Commission:

Gentlemen:

The Ohio Fuel Gas Company hereby accepts the terms and conditions of that certain ordinance No. 329, passed by the commission of the City of Xenia on April 14, 1927, which said ordinance prescribes the price which the Ohio Fuel Gas Company, its successors and assigns, may charge, during the period of two (2) years from the date, on which said ordinance becomes effective, for natural, mixed or artificial gas furnished within the corporate limits of the City of Xenia, Ohio.

Very truly yours,
THE OHIO FUEL GAS CO.

HOT BY DEGREES FRIDAY--92 OF THEM

Weather Friday got hot by degrees—that is, it was many degrees hotter than it has been this summer.

Exhausted mercury hovered in household thermometers around the 92 degree mark, while storm clouds presaged relief that seemed slow in coming.

DELEGATES TO OHIO Y. P. B. CONVENTION DISBANDING FRIDAY

Closing Session On Friday Morning—Day-ton Visited

Delegates to the fifteenth annual convention of the Ohio Young People's Branch, of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in session here since June 23, began to leave Xenia, Friday noon. Unfinished business of the convention was transacted Friday morning.

The closing session opened at 8:45 with a prayer and praise service led by Dallas L. Hurd, followed by assembly music, led by the state musical director, Timothy Stevens. Joanna West, state recording secretary, read the minutes of the preceding meeting, followed by the presentation of awards, reading of directors of departments, reports of committees, and other unfinished business. Ten were given gold pins for special work and thirty graduated from the study course, including eleven from Xenia.

The delegates were taken to Dayton where they visited the Dayton Soldiers' Hospital and the National Cash Register Co. Mrs. Raina Boyce, missionary to Macedonia, discussed the habits and customs of the youth of that country, in an address Thursday evening. Mrs. Boyce appeared in Macedonia costume. Mrs. Florence D. Richard, Toledo, also addressed the Thursday evening session, pointing out past achievements of the Y. P. B. and urging the workers on to further endeavor. The Franklin County Y. P. B. presented a pageant on prohibition. McClellan Y. P. B. gave a party for the pleasure of visiting delegates in the church basement Thursday night. Ice cream and cake were served.

Members of the Greene County W. C. T. U., Loyal Temperance Legion and the Y. P. B. were highly pleased with the scope of the convention and the inspiration afforded the young people. Local workers expressed their gratitude Friday to the Xenians who extended hospitality to the delegates.

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW XENIA PAIGE AGENCY BUILDING

Contract for the erection of a one-story brick building at the rear of the Evans livery barn, N. Whiteman St., recently purchased by H. L. Binder, has been awarded to McCurran Bros., local contracting firm.

The new structure is to replace an old frame building, which has been razed. Dimensions of the new building are to be thirty-five by sixty-five feet.

The livery barn was recently purchased as a new site for the Xenia Paige Co., which has been occupying a location on W. Main St. Extensive improvements are under way which will provide two entrances to the auto agency, one on Whiteman St. and the second on E. Main St.

McCurran Bros. are also engaged in the construction of a new sewage disposal plant at Wilberforce University, which is expected to be completed by September 1. The project is about half finished.

THIRD MURDER IN BOOTLEG BATTLE

CHICAGO, July 1.—The third murder in three days attributed to the outbreak of a new bootleg war, was recorded here today in the death of Nuncio Jamerico, 28, whose body, perforated by sixty-two bullets, was discovered in the rear yard of his home.

Police claim a war of extermination in which a syndicate is seeking control of the illicit liquor market, is responsible for the slayings.

The others killed were Diego At-tionione and Lorenzo Alagna.

YOUTH DROWNS

NEW LEXINGTON, O., July 1.—Gerald Grimm, 19, was drowned here early today when he waded beyond his depth. He could not swim. Friends went to his assistance but failed to save him. His body was recovered.

TWO WOMEN FOUND HELP

Their Sickness Banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Nina Matteson, Box 206, Oxford, N. Y., writes—"If it had not been for your medicine, I could not have done my work as it should have been done. Mother told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had read in different papers what it had done for different women. She wanted me to try it, so my husband got me one bottle at first; then I took two others.  Now I am feeling quite strong again."

Mrs. Ernest Tanguay of Adams, Mass., says she was ill for four years and could not sleep nights or go out on the street. She read about the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking eight bottles she was able to do all her work and go anywhere and is quite herself again.

This dependable Vegetable Compound is a household word in thousands of homes. The fourth generation is now learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If this medicine has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you? At your druggist's.

The Theatre

What has become of the movie stars of yesteryear? This question arises in film theater circles regularly and a new group of former favorites enters the much-mooted question with each revival. The men and women who were the film favorites of a decade ago when the silent drama was in its infancy, where are they now?

Death has claimed a few, some have married and retired from the screen, others, their brief vogue over, have slipped into oblivion or extra roles. A recent inquiry has furnished much interesting information about the stars of the past. Marguerite Clark, once Mary Pickford's only rival, has married and has been living in New Orleans. Mae Marsh, for whom great things were predicted when D. W. Griffith became her sponsor, has again retired, after a "come back" several years ago.

Gilbert M. Anderson, better known as "Broncho Bill" popular "western" hero, lost money producing musical revues, and recently has been on the Pacific coast. Harold Lockwood, Wallace Reid, Earle Williams, Max Linder, Barbara La Marr and Olive Thomas have answered the call of the Great Director. Olga Petrova, once a Metro star, has been appearing in plays written by herself. Crane Wilbur, hero of the serial, "The Perils of Pauline," and others, in 1913 and thereafter, is touring the country in a vaudeville sketch.

Pauline Frederick has been in London the past season, acting on screen and stage. She refuses to take supporting roles and her recent success was "Her Honor, the Governor." Nazimova has entered real estate business in California and retired from the screen. Louise Glaum left the films when the "vampire" vogue died. Ruth Rolfe, once queen of the serials now is very wealthy through real estate deals in Los Angeles. Pearl White, also a serial heroine, has been living in Paris the last five years. Ethel Clayton makes an occasional picture between legitimate engagements.

Gail Kane left the silent drama for the spoken stage. Enid Bennett, now Mrs. Fred Niblo, once Doug Fairbanks' leading woman, seldom appears on the screen now. Elaine Hammerstein hasn't returned to the films since she was injured in an auto accident. Clara Kimball Young, one of the first motion picture stars, refused to take featured roles and left the films. She since has appeared in vaudeville. Vivian Martin, one of the Fox stars has been on the legitimate stage for years. Fame in moviedom is apt to come suddenly and just as swiftly its mantle slips from the shoulders of the star of today to cover

TAKEN ON THURSDAY

A profusion of rambler roses was used about the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Grant, Lower Ellbrook Pike, Thursday afternoon, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth to Mr. Percy Smith, at 1:30 o'clock.

Forty guests witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church.

The attendants were Miss Helen Grant, sister of the bride and Mr. Dean Moore. The bride party entered the living room, where the vows were taken, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. Harold Armentrout. The single ring ceremony was used.

The bride wore a gown of white georgette, trimmed with silk lace and ribbons. She carried bride's roses. Miss Helen Grant wore pink crepe and carried pink roses. Luncheon was served after the service. Covers for six were laid at the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left Thursday evening for Virginia, where they will visit relatives. They will reside on a farm near Xenia on their return.

WOMAN KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

BUYRUS, O., July 1.—One woman is dead, another believed dying while a man companion escaped as the result of a grade crossing accident here early this morning. Mrs. Arthur Pfeiffer, died from injuries, five hours after the accident, while her mother-in-law, Mrs. John Pfeiffer, is in Monette hospital. She may recover. The driver of the car, Russell Bash, a garage owner, was driving the women from Cleveland to their home here, according to police. The auto was struck at 3:11 a. m. by a Pennsy express at the Walnut St. crossing police report.

Say "Winton"—that's the password to a pleasant time in Cleveland

When you step off the train ask for the Winton.

We'd like to be your hosts. Not just see that you are well-housed and well-fed, but see that everything is done to make your stay in Cleveland a delightful episode. That's the spirit here.

We'll see that every little detail contributing to your comfort and convenience is taken care of . . . from rushing your laundry to getting fourth row center aisle theatre tickets at the last minute.

I spend all my time here at the Winton. It's my job and my life. I'll be personally responsible for all these things.

Will you be my guest?

P. S. Rates are reduced. The Winton is by far the best hotel "value" in this United States.

HOPEFUL RUPPRECHT

"Bavarians want restitution of the former rights of the royal house," said former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, addressing a peasants' meeting the other day. "The people will not be silenced until their demand for their former king is granted."

Rupprecht's remarks scarcely can be considered those of an unbiased judge, of course, and correspondents report no great popular uprising in behalf of the deposed monarchy, although unquestionably there is a strong monarchist party throughout all the states of the former German empire. The German republic is an experiment about whose ultimate success always there has been a doubt, but of late the world has been led to believe that the republican cause has been substantially reinforced.

It is barely possible that Prince Rupprecht has been misinformed about the sentiment of the Bavarians. A little drum corps can make more noise than a symphony orchestra.

HOW OUTINGS HELP

The Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and other exponents of the out-of-doors are enjoying benefits of life in the open. They see the things of the world in a new light and understand nature better. They meet friends in the same cause, swap stories and form congenial companionships. Every student of the big out-of-doors gets new object lessons, makes new resolves and forms new links of character with the day of sunshine.

Sunshine is the test of summer time. It ripens the grain and fruit and gives strength to the camper. All nature has a smiling face when the sun causes the plants to grow, the flowers to open and the fruits to mature. Sunshine induces youth to get out, amid the fields and forests, drink in the pure air and enjoy the healthfulness of exercise in the open.

There are profits in sunshine that one does not always reckon on when planning an outing in the open. It creates beauty and attractiveness and thereby adds to efficiency and usefulness. It helps in fitting one for future work and inculcates a desire for keeping young in order to continue enjoying the playfields of youth. Yes, there are countless benefits to be derived from mingling with the all-outdoors. The sun paints smiles on the cheeks of humanity in unerasable lines.

HERE'S A REAL FRIEND

Before a prisoner is paroled from most state prisons, he must have outside the walls a "first friend" who will vouch for him. With a new suit of clothes and a $5-bill, then, if ever, he needs a friend. There is a man in Cleveland who has organized a Voucher Club. He does practically all the vouching there is. He makes himself first friend to paroled prisoners. That is service without glamour and without glory. That is the sound friendship of a man who cares.

A FAMOUS MILK MAID

Gertrude Kaiser, Iowa girl, is only 16, but she is a member of the United States championship junior dairy judging team. The milk maid's fame started in song and story. She's come a long way and she's made good. When so many boys and girls, even at 16, know what they're about, there's little need of worrying about the future.

JUST BREATHING DUST

Russian high school students are not taught the Russian classics. They do not read Shakespeare, Milton or Byron. But they are familiar with the ballyhoo and misrepresentation of Upton Sinclair. To prey on decent American institutions is merely a hobby with Sinclair. It works in well with the type of propaganda which teaches Russians the philosophy of hate.

To neglect the good books of the world to grovel with Sinclair is like choosing to pass up the air and the sunshine and breathe the dust of the alleys.

HOW HIGH IS AVERAGE THOUGHT?

An American educator says: "I am not one of those who scoff at congress. Our representatives in Washington endeavor to carry out faithfully that which they are confident is for the best interest of the whole nation. They fairly represent the average thought of our people."

Congressmen doubtless do represent the average thought of the people. But the average thought is not high. People are vastly more interested in entertainment than they are in stimulation. And they are more interested in stimulation than they are in inspiration. And they are more interested in inspiration than they are in instruction.

Tough Nuts To Crack

KELLYGRAMS by FRED C KELLY

HARNESSING COMMON SENSE

In the Treasury Department at Washington, Joseph S. McCoy, who works in comparative obscurity, is one of the most useful men connected with the government.

McCoy deals with statistics, and is by education an expert mathematician, but much more important than his knowledge of figures, is his knowledge of human nature. It is his knack for translating human nature into figures that makes his work valuable.

One of McCoy's tasks is to tell the ways and means committee of congress, or Andy Mellon, how much money a given taxation measure should produce. It does not follow that tripling a tax would triple the revenue; for as a thing becomes more expensive, fewer persons buy it. If you charge ten cents admission to a picture theater, you may get a big crowd, but if you charged two dollars you might not get any paid admissions at all.

One afternoon I saw McCoy standing on a street corner counting both the automobiles and pedestrians that went by. He took a pad and pencil and did a little figuring. In a few minutes he had estimate of the number of automobiles in the city. He afterward got the actual figures, and found that his estimate was practically correct. How could he tell that, after studying only one corner?

By comparing the ratio of autos and pedestrians with the total population of the city. When there was first talk of a tax on admissions to moving picture theaters, McCoy was asked to submit estimates of the number of persons who attend movies. He had figures the next day, and they were fairly accurate.

McCoy had started his inquiry simply by asking his wife how often she went to a movie. Then he asked her how often her friends went. He happened to see a movie strip in an evening paper about a woman who went downtown ostensibly to do shopping, but who attended three picture shows, one after another. That set him to thinking, and he made inquiry as to the number of women who go to more than one show each day, thus boosting the average.

He didn't have to ask in Kansas or California, but right in his own neighborhood—among people he knew. For he was willing to assume that if there are men and women in Washington who can't get enough movies to satisfy their craving, there must be just such men and women out in Idaho and elsewhere.

You see, we are about alike no matter where we live. Hence even dry statistics may be human.

BLEPHARITIS

Limited in size though the structure of the eyelids may be, they are subject to a variety of diseases, and when these are inflammatory in character, they are called blepharitis. In the general term of blepharitis.

Thus this condition may include inflammation of the glands of the eyelids which is commonly known as stytes, inflammation of the hair follicles from which the eyelashes are developed, inflammation due to errors of refraction or to irritation of the conjunctiva, the mucous membrane covering the lids, and to inflammation of the tear duct which conducts the tears from the eye to the nose.

Even trachoma, the disease commonly known as granular lids, which is often so destructive of the mucous membrane covering the lids, and may result even in serious injury to vision, is really a form of blepharitis.

The disease can come from a variety of causes; there is the ever present possibility of injury from bacteria and parasites, the effect of strain and over-use of the eye, especially if they have been habitually used where the light is artificial and defective, or where the daylight is insufficient or improperly directed.

The appearance of eyelids, which are the seat of blepharitis, is characteristic enough. They are red and swollen at the border and yellowish crusts are constantly forming upon them which rasp and scrape the eyes and often cause much discomfort.

In bad cases the hair follicles of the lids are destroyed, the hairs forming the eyelashes falling out and the eyes thereby losing the protection which the eyelashes are designed to furnish.

In addition to this, the same as in trachoma, the inflammation of the conjunctival mucous membrane is often followed by scarring, which contracts and everts the lids and prevents the tears from running down the tear duct into the nose.

Consequently, the tears are constantly dripping over the lids up on the face, the patient has a bleary-eyed appearance, and he is annoyed by the constant necessity of using his handkerchief.

It may come at any period of life, from infancy to old age, and if one is unable to employ the services of an oculist privately, he must go to a public clinic.

The crusts upon the eyelids must be softened with warm water and removed daily, once or often, with gentleness and care.

A good nurse is capable of giving this attention, but it is usually best to get the sedative or stimulating applications which may be required for the eyelids be made by a skilled oculist.

If the disease is taken in hand sufficiently early, and is properly handled, the results will, in most cases, be quite satisfactory.

How to Achieve Beauty by MME. HELENA RUBENSTEIN

SERENE MENTAL ATTITUDE CONDUCIVE TO SUMMER DAINTINESS

Today in further regard to this week's subject of "Summer Daintiness from Head to Foot," I want to say a few words about keeping your mental attitude serene and untroubled because this is bound to have an important bearing upon your beauty.

It is no less important than immaculate attire in a line of dress. I have discussed in various phases during the preceding days of this week. Today, I want you to seriously consider the importance of cultivating a relaxed happy frame of mind, which will automatically eliminate hurry and worry—those two fatal drawbacks during any season of the year.

I am considering today, particularly the woman in business rather than the woman in the home, because she can easily adjust her summer schedule so as to eliminate hurry and bustle and has more opportunity to be in the country and do little else except think about keeping cool. Whereas, the woman in the city, who has a regular routine of business activity to follow each day must adopt definite warm weather plans or she will be certain to suffer from the effects of the extreme heat.

Now, by this remark I do not mean that doing regular consistent work in summer will harm you. On the contrary, it is good for you, as it stimulates circulation and keeps the mind active. However, trying to do too much work during the very warm weather and not getting enough relaxation or fretting and fussing about petty matters will lower one's vitality, and that is something you should all try to avoid.

Therefore, my advice to you women in business, is to dress as simply and coolly as possible. Do your work in the order which it presents itself and after you finish one task begin another, but do not try to do three or four things at one time. Do not allow anyone to hurry or fluster you. Do everything possible to keep mentally cool and composed.

Try to get out of doors as much as possible. Daylight saving time makes a game of tennis or a round of golf possible after you leave the office, especially if you live in the suburbs. Spend as many week ends as possible in the country indulging in swimming, golf, tennis or other summer sports.

On days that seem interminably hot and sultry, drink plenty of cold water (noticed but clear and cold). Lemonade and orangeade are also cooling and palatable. Another cooling drink that agrees with almost anyone is made as follows:

1-4 teaspoonful cream of tartar, Juice of 12 lemons, 1 glass of cool water, sweeten to taste.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, July 1.—Head waiters are princelings in a miniature empire, and every big hotel is a confederation of state of which the maitre d'hotel is the czar and the proprietor the prime minister. There are strict lines of caste, ranging all the way from the maitre d'hotel to the lowly bus-boy and washroom attendant.

Next below the maitre d'hotel is the chef, who is supreme ruler in the kitchen and who demands subservience from the cooks, the broilers and friends. The cooks, in turn, treat the dish washers and scullery maids with aristocratic condescension. And the dish washers tilt their noses in the presence of the floor-moppers and garbage attendants and do not speak to them except in the voice of command or abuse.

The head waiter is the kaiser in the dining room, and to him the captains (who are often mistaken for head waiters because they show people to tables and do not wait on the tables themselves) are meek and mental. The captains are tyrants to the waiters and regard them as social inferiors. The waiters, in their turn, regard the bus-boys as low worms to whom they must never speak in terms of equality. The bus-boy is the lowest in the social scale, sharing the last rung with the wash-room attendants.

Having no one in the hotel empire to whom they can be arrogant and surly without losing their jobs, the washroom attendants and bus-boys take it out on the customers. The head waiter, and even the waiter, may be obsequious and all smiles to a patron, but the bus-boy and the washroom attendant feel under no obligation to be so. The bus-boy will take crumbs in to your lap, overthrow your glass from a danceter so that the water runs down over your clothes and makes the tablecloth so damp you can't put your hand on it comfortably, or scowl at you and pay no attention to you when you ask for an ash tray. The washroom attendant will be rude where the head waiter is polite, because, like the bus-boy, the washroom attendant has no social status to lose.

Head waiters always dine in state, usually in a private room, attended by two or three waiters who are eager to please them. They demand perfect service and will criticize the slightest deviation from the fixed placing of a spoon or fork, and when they criticize, it is with the expletives of a German junker reprimanding a subordinate. Few persons ever get the service accorded a head waiter.

But the chef gets better food. Often there is a feud between the chef and the head waiter and the chef orders the cooks to cook the head waiter wants them underdone, and to serve him bad cuts and vegetable seconds. But the chef himself gets the best of everything. His cooks see to that. He is very critical and the cooks owe their jobs to him. The best meals I have ever eaten in my life were as the guest of chefs in a big hotel. The salary of one of these chefs is $20,000 a year.

At large dinners of fraternities and other social organizations it is frequently the rule not to allow tips to be collected at the tables. In such cases the tips are arranged for in a lump sum, paid before the banquet to the head waiter. The head waiter allows a certain amount of this money to the captains, who in turn divide up with the waiters, who in turn divide with the bus-boys.

Very well. Hereafter read your stuff over very carefully and don't make any more slips. There hasn't been a body found in the East river for some little time."

That last sentence, "There hasn't been a body found in the East river for some little time," is time-honored and customary warning of gunmen whenever they object to something someone has done. They are soft-spoken men, these gunmen, and they are not given to violent language. Like Ruth Snyder on trial, they don't like to hear the word "murder" and they never use it themselves.

Rich or poor? Young or old, all suffer from intestinal stasis (constipation). The cause can be told with one word—"That word is 'Civilization'." It means "over-eating", "over-work", "worry" and "nerve enervation", wrong foods, wrong drinks! Not enough animal exercise, such as running, jumping, walking, climbing, etc.

The nervous force that should go to the bowel-nerves is taken by the brain or other parts of the body, to perform "civilized duties—or excesses."

Avoid all the causes you can! You can't avoid all of them, therefore you must need the aid of Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills, to nourish and tone-up the bowel-nerves; to stimulate the liver; to cleanse and purify the 32 feet of intestines where delayed activity has made poisons which cause biliousness, sick headache, irritable, grouchy feelings, and impaired efficiency in work or play.

Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills are non-secret, prompt, and pleasant. Sold by druggists, 45 years and "Better Than Castor Oil." 45 pills—30 cts.

THIS MORNING'S PANCAKES

THIS morning's pancakes were so good. My folks refused all other food. The other courses went to waste. Before the pancakes' perfect taste.

Tom poured the maple syrup thick, And with appreciative lick, So scraped and tarried at his plate, The school-bell rang, and he was late.

The family cleared a mammoth platter— I made a second batch of batter. Each pancake was ambrosial stuff— It seemed they could not get enough.

This most delightful breakfast feat I am unlikely to repeat. And lest I be too much on trial, I sha'n't serve pancakes for a while!

SENIOR BUSINESS MEN BEAT KIWANIS IN SOFT BALL GAME

Senior Business Men forced the Kiwanis Club to a little deeper in the dugout and assumed second place in the Xenia Playground League by trouncing Kiwanians 16 to 11 in a well-played soft ball game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Thursday night.

The contest was nip and tuck for five innings but the business men forced in a substantial lead in the sixth and followed with three more runs in the eighth while Kiwanians were being blanked.

Gibney pitched for the winners with Downey and Cain behind the plate. Downey was forced to retire in the fourth by a slight injury. Wallantyne and Huston twirled for Kiwanis with Bell catching.

Boy Scouts will meet the league-leading Junior Business Men Friday night.

HOT WEATHER TAKES THREE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 1.—Record-breaking hot weather killed three persons in Chicago today, bringing the total of dead for a three-day period of torrid weather to twenty-seven.

The thermometer registered 86 degrees this morning and no relief was promised until night.

The heat wave is general over the mid-west, centering in Chicago.

COOLIDGE PLEASED
WASHINGTON, July 1.—President Coolidge today transmitted a telegram of congratulations to Commander Byrd.

"I send you my sincere congratulations, on your successful flight across the Atlantic," the message said. "I have followed your distinguished and courageous career in aerial navigation with interest and admiration."

"Your flight to the North Pole proved the effectiveness of the airplane in adding to the scientific knowledge of the unexplored surface of the world, and I am sure your present flight will notably advance our knowledge of conditions which must be met and conquered to make trans-oceanic aerial navigation commercially practicable and safe."

TRIANGLE LEAGUE TEAMS KNOTTED IN STANDING OF LOOP

An unusual situation exists in the six-team Triangle Baseball League in that each team is involved in a tie.

The Bowersville Bayliffs, by winning Sunday while Spring Valley was losing, tied the latter team for first place, each with five victories and three defeats.

Wilmington and Waynesville are tied for second place, half a game behind the leaders, while the Dayton Modern Woodmen of America and Jamestown are also deadlocked, each with the same percentage.

Bowersville will play at Waynesville Sunday at 3 p. m. League standing follows:

| Team | Won | Lost |

| Spring Valley | 5 | 3 |
| Wilmington | 5 | 4 |

FORMER XENIA BOY PITCHES GOOD BALL

If anybody is entitled to special credit for the sensational showing of the John T. Murphy baseball team in the Class A division of the Kentucky Post Amateur Association, it is Earl Milburn, southpaw, a Xenia product.

The sensational pitching of the local boy, who was recently acquired by "Hap" Hanser, Murphy manager, has been one of the features of the circuit and the main factor in his team's good showing in the league.

Milburn has made three starts on the mound, winning each game impressively. He is slated to oppose Independence Sunday in an exhibition game at Independence.

FLYERS EXHAUSTED BY THRILLING TRIP

VER-SUR-MER, France, July 1.—The four flying aces of the monoplane "America" were in a state of collapse after their thrilling trans Atlantic flight and forced landing in the English channel early today.

When Vice Mayor Coffier and his two sons were routed out of bed by the two fishermen who went to the rescue of Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three companions they found the flyers on the beach—exhausted.

Commander Byrd and Lieut. Bert Balchen were lying on the sandy beach in a state of collapse. Balchen, a hardy Norwegian, was fully as exhausted as Byrd. The fishermen did not know the identity of the men until Coffier asked Byrd who he was.

Bert Acosta, the black-haired pilot of the plane and Lieut. George O. Noville, the radio expert, were found a short distance up the beach near the lighthouse, both of them in a weakened condition.

SNOWBALLS MISSING-PERISH THE THOUGHT

Strange as it may seem, the picture above was not taken any time this week. The kids were taught by the camera pushing the snowballs around during the first snowfall. But that was last winter and therefore another story.

ROOSEVELT FIELD REJOICES AS NEWS OF BYRD'S ARRIVAL COMES

Wives Happy But Calm On Learning Husbands Had Reached Europe—All Were Confident, They Say.

NEW YORK, July 1.—There was great rejoicing, especially at Roosevelt Field, early today when the news was flashed from Paris that Commander Richard E. Byrd and his fellow flyers in the Fokker monoplane America were safe on the French coast, having been forced by bad weather to land at Ver-sur-mer, instead of Le Bourget, their destination.

As soon as the news was received at Roosevelt Field, Grover Whalen, representative of Rodman Wanamaker, financial backer of the flight, telephoned the news to Mrs. Byrd at Boston.

"I am very happy to hear it," cried Mrs. Byrd over the telephone. "It is fine news."

Mr. Whalen telephoned also to Thomas Byrd at Winchester, Va. Mrs. Acosta had a worn look on her face but she smiled at the reporters as they dashed out of the office with their geographical lore. One of the first things she asked, after she learned that the flyers were safe, was whether the plane had been damaged.

COUNTY WILL ISSUE BONDS TO FINANCE HOME REPAIR WORK

County Commissioners have adopted a resolution authorizing a bond issue of $914.92 to defray the cost of repairing the Greene County Children's Home by the installation of a hot water system.

Maturities of the bonds are to be met by substantially equal annual installments.

The serial bonds of the county to be sold are numbered one to nine and will be of $100 denomination each, with the exception of one bond for $114.92. They will be dated from September 1, 1928.

The bonds, bearing 6 per cent annual interest, will fall due as follows: $214.92, September 1, 1928; $200, September 1, 1929; $300, September 1, 1930; and $200, September 1, 1931.

Taxes for the bonds will first appear on the 1928 tax duplicate. According to the resolution, the bonds will first be offered to the county sinking fund trustees, and if rejected, will be offered at public sale.

MAYOR'S COURT TRIALS HELD

William Derrick, Edmund McCormick and Walter Covell were to stand trial before Mayor John W. Prugh Friday afternoon on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct.

They were arrested Thursday by Patrolman Fred Jones, Ed Craig and Charles Thompson, pleaded not guilty, and furnished appearance bond Friday morning.

LANCASTER CORDS BALLOONS

FEDERAL BLUE PENNANT CORDS BALLOONS

The Development of Years of Research in the Use of Balloon Principles

You Can't "Pinch" Them

Their construction and design positively avoid the necessity of over-inflating the tires to insure long service. You can run them at genuine low air pressures and get the comfort that balloon tires are intended to give. Special treatment of the Cord meets perfectly the continuous flexing of the balloon type.

Federal side-walls are extra thick and patented cord construction allows unusual flexibility. Even at extremely low pressures there is no "rim-wear" or pinching.

You Can't "Ride 'em Out"

Lancaster Tread is thicker and harder than most tires, resisting road shocks much better, causing the wear to be slow and evenly distributed over each tread block.

Federal Blue Pennant Tread is famous for its wear. Unusually wide bearing surfaces on an extra thick tread gives extremely big mileage. Federal Balloons are adding to the 30 years record of Federal Tires.

KILLED YEARLY!

125,000 babies are killed every year because their parents do not know how to feed them.

Another 125,000 babies die every year because parents, in their ignorance, do not know other simple rules of the hygiene of infancy!

If you are the parent of a child, or expecting to be the parent of a child, you owe it to yourself, the child and the world, to know all you can about that child and its physical needs.

Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters, a specialist in child-care, will instruct you, free of charge, in the art of bringing up a "better baby" in her articles.

KITCHEN-KOOK
THE WORLD'S FASTEST COOK STOVE

Cook With Gas
—beyond the Gas Service limits

Kitchenkook brings to rural and suburban homes and city homes outside the gas limits, every convenience of city gas. In fact, it is a gas stove, with its own gas plant built right into it. Makes and burns its own gas from common gasoline, producing the fastest known cooking fire. Kitchenkook is different from any stove you have ever used. It has all the fine features of gas with none of the objectionable features of common liquid fuel stoves; no wicks or chimneys; no smoke, soot, or kerosene odor. Takes less than a minute to light; then all burners are ready at once. Turn them on or off, as wanted, just like gas. Kitchenkook is the biggest improvement in fine cook stoves in the past quarter century. It's the sensation of the industry. Don't fail to ask for a demonstration of this wonder cook stove. Made in 16 attractive models.

may be thinking that the next house he'll occupy in Washington will be a celebrated mansion officially known as No. 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. At any rate, the slush-fund Hawkshaw has just pulled up stakes at the home he's owned in Biltmore Street, N. W., for the past four or five years, and is now moving his lares and penates out to Kansas City. There the Democratic southwester's favorite son of 1926 now inhabits a palatial residence on the outskirts of town. One of its distinctive features is a front porch and a lawn capable of accommodating a couple of thousand people without crowding. The big boxes in which "Jim's" household goods are packed for shipment are adorned, for some unexplained reason, with the numbers "7-11." Anybody who shoots craps knows what "7-11" stands for.

A certain eastern college recently conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon A. Atwater Kent, radio manufacturer; Commander Richard E. Byrd, and a member of congress who shall be nameless for the purpose of this story. A concern that syndicates pictures to the newspapers sent out a photograph of the trio with the caption: "Three Air Artists." One of the July magazines, speaking of congress and air, devotes a biographical sketch to Blanton, of Texas, under the title of "Wind Machine."

Not only private business, but the industry of culture, is making incessant raids upon the best minds in Uncle Sam's service. Now comes Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland Gap, Tenn., with an offer of its presidency to Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' bureau. Whether the call will be answered affirmatively has not yet been determined. General Hines, who is completing his fourth year at the Veterans' bureau, has remained at the head of that $400,000,000 establishment in the face of repeated invitations to enter business life at a salary many times his government pay. His brilliant record as chief of the army's transportation service during the war and as administrator of the vast department he now directs is well known in the commercial world. One day it doubtless will annex Hines.

avail themselves of the assistance of parliamentary law authorities. Japan is occupying new and extensive business premises in Washington. Ambassador Matsudaira has just moved the chancery of the embassy from its long-time location in N-Street into the big four-story mansion at No. 1600 Rhode Island Avenue, fronting Scott Circle. The old chancery long since outgrew its usefulness. One day the Japanese—patterning our own impending example in Tokio—plan to build or buy an embassy residence commensurate with their importance as a world power. But Nippon, like the far more plutocratic United States, is in the grip of an economy program, and cherished construction schemes at Washington have had to be indefinitely postponed.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

A book-house for their dollies

Is one of their latest follies. The boys had gone off on a fishing trip and the girl members of the Ritzie club were trying to find something real exciting to do. When they pulled out their paper dolls from the shelves of the little wardrobe where Patsy had tucked them away, they found them all covered with dust.

"Poor neglected things," soothed Betty Ann, as she dusted them off and laid them out on the floor. The girls had been so interested in their outdoor fish pond and their vegetable garden that they had forgotten all about their paper dolls.

"Let's make a house for them," suggested Patsy.

"What kind of a house?" asked Betty Ann. Surely Patsy didn't think they could make a wooden dollhouse all by themselves! "A paper house!" cried Patsy, becoming more and more excited over her idea. "Come, let's see what we can find among the old magazines in the attic," and grabbing her little friend by the hand she

the pictures in some of these old garden magazines of mother's. "On the second page we'll paste a picture of the hallway and a peek at the circular stairway. When the house is all finished we will tuck our paper doll maid in her little white apron in this page because she must always be there to open the door when guests come."

"Oh, I see," said Betty Ann. "Each page will be some room of the house with pictures of the kind we would like for our own."

"That's it," answered Patsy. "Then when a guest doll calls, she can go from one room to the other as we turn the pages. We will have a sun parlor, all bright and gay, a gold and black den for the papa doll, nursery for the child, and a white tile bathroom and everything. Why, we can have everything we want for our paper doll-house. Even a play-house out on the lawn if we can find a picture of one."

What fun the girls had poring over the old magazines and cutting out the pictures of things that skipped up the attic stairs at a merry pace.

What nice things the attic had in store for them. Just as if it had been expecting their visit. First, there was a large paste-board covered book with pages that were almost blank, no writing at all—but just a little picture in the center of each page.

"Oh, this will be the very thing for our paper doll-house," cried Patsy. "See, the pages are almost blank and we can paste our pictures right on top of the ones that are here."

"What pictures?" asked Betty Ann, who was still wondering how Patsy was going to make a doll house, and especially out of a book!

"Well, you see, our paper dolls couldn't stand up in a regular doll house (for they had cut their paper dolls from fashion magazines and they had no little pasteboard props to hold them up) and so a book-house will do just as well as any other kind," explained Patsy. "The first page will be a picture of the front lawn with a fountain or some big statuary lions at the front gate. I'm sure we can find they wanted in their paper doll-house! Patsy ran down stairs and got her paint and brush and painted some of the pictures that were black and white, for of course there must be a pink, a yellow and a blue bedroom.

Betty Ann found a picture of a garden tea table and, pasting this on one of the front pages of the book decided that this would be the very place for her favorite paper doll, the stylish lady with the blue picture hat.

It was great fun placing the dolls on the pages where they looked the best. And it was even more fun when the house was all finished and in order to have a paper doll lady, dressed in her visiting clothes, call on the lady of the house and be shown through the beautiful rooms.

The girls would have played on and on without noticing the time at all if Mrs. Collins hadn't called them and told them it was supper time.

Patsy and Betty Ann are very anxious that all the little girls in Xenia should hear about their lovely paper doll-house so that they can make one, too!

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

Philip Wynne Tracy IV has had a childish engagement with Natalie Jones. Becoming interested in Lyra Hilliard, an old friend of his mother's, he finds himself falling in love with her. Natalie, overhearing him making love to Lyra, breaks her engagement. It all comes to nothing, however, because America enters the war.

Philip enlists and is soon in France. Just before leaving, Phil meets Natalie again and they plan to be married. The immediate departure of the troops, however, prevents this.

Soon after arriving in France Phil is wounded and is decorated for bravery.

While convalescent, armistice is declared and Phil returns to Paris.

His mother goes to France, accompanied by Miss Arkland, devoted to her. Unexpectedly she comes face to face with her son.

Mrs. Tracy learns that Phil intends to marry Pat, a French divorcee with a four-year-old child. She refuses her consent to the marriage, and after Phil's discharge they return to America.

Mrs. Tracy visits Natalie to show her the first morning after their return. Natalie seems cold and mysterious to her mother. She explains Phil and Pat's love affair and that she is interested in Jerry Kenyon, her father's young partner in business.

About this time Phil receives a letter from Pat, telling her that a marriage has been arranged between herself and a wealthy Frenchman. Phil at once writes her and tells her of his love for Lyra. He promises to keep her waiting until he can come to her.

Phil then writes to Lyra, telling her that he has been thinking of her all the time. He says that he has been thinking of her all the time and that he has been thinking of her all the time.

Phil then writes to Lyra, telling her that he has been thinking of her all the time. He says that he has been thinking of her all the time and that he has been thinking of her all the time.

PLENTY TROUBLE! JULY 4th and TIRES!

Socrates says to Cleopatra that it never rains when it can pour and Calvin replied that a black berry on the bush is worth a heap more than any ole bird if you are hungry for berries than which there was never spoke a more true word! All of which leads up to the problem now facing this firm I am working for as Press Agent.

Carroll comes out where I was frying a fish and lifting the flap of the tent says: "Do you realize Shorty that next Monday is Fourth of July; and that the entire population of Greene County will climb up in their cars and move about on RUBBER?" And I says sezzi:

"Prosperity! Prosperity!"

"Cut that out!" says Carroll. "What do you mean by imitating my partner that way! Your job here is to get people in here to buy TIRES so they can run their cars so they can buy gas so they can use one of our batteries and a heap of our Oil. You get busy and write AT ONCE an ad of some kind which will bring in TIRE SALES!"

He went away from there in a fast way and up until now I have NOT thought of any particularly GOOD way to advertise TIRES. This is going to be a big disappointment to this firm for I personally know that they just got in ONE carload of brand NEW TIRES and are expecting ANOTHER CARLOAD TODAY! What they will do with all these TIRES if I can't think of a good ad to write I do NOT know. Tires are no good to any one unless he's got a wheel to put them on and a wheel is no good to any one unless they have some place to put the wheel. So I reckon they're all outta luck for THIS week.

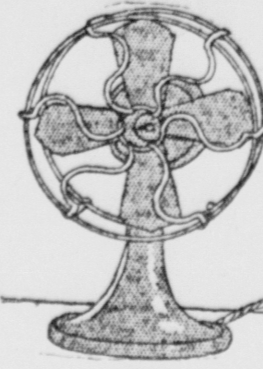

It's my intention to go fishing Monday and I've heard a lot of other people say the same thing. One does NOT need a TIRE to go fishing so far as I can see.

Mebbe NEXT week I will think of some good way to advertise TIRES for the 4th of July. I dunno.

Yours truly,

Shorty
